HEAVY SEAS HALT RESCUE OF SUNKEN SUB

HOPE OF SAVING IMPRISONED MEN SINKS LOW TODAY

GIANT CRANES COULD NOT OPERATE IN THE HEAVY SWELLS

REPORT OF DIVER IN EARLY MORNING OFFERED RAY OF HOPE

New London, Conn., Sept. 28—Operations for rescue of men trapped in the sunken submarine S-51 were halted this afternoon.

The seas were running high in the wake of stormy weather overnight.

The giant cranes, Monarch and Century, counted upon to hoist the stern of the S-51 could not operate in the heavy swells.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 28—UP—An unofficial wireless dispatch received here shortly after 10 a. m. from the scene of the Submarine S-51 disaster stated that a diver, sent down to the S-51 had found the bulkhead of one compartment slightly damaged but closed. Navy officials here said if this information was accurate there still was a remote chance that a few of the 34 trapped men, at least, might be alive.

New London, Conn., Sept. 28—The marine derirck Monarch arirved this morning on the scene of the sinking of the submarine S-51. The huge vessel which left New York Saturday night is equipped with derricks capable of lifting 250 tons and these with the derricks already on the scene will be turned immediately to second attempt to raise the submarine from the ocean's bottom.

Admiral Chrsty refused to admit his hope was gone. But no authentic sound has come from the S-51 despite the efforts of divers to obtain signals from within the hull. They have gone down repeatedly and tapped and hammered to those inside that rescue was near. Then they listened for the faintest answering tap from within the shell but no sound came to tell that life remained within the water flooded tomb.

Precious moments in the rescue work were lost during the night when the tow lines connecting the Monarch with the tugboats Iuka and Sagamore became tangled with the Sagamore's propellers. Three and a half hours were required to straighten the cables.

The Monarch will join the other Merritt-Chapman derrick in the double lift at the sunken hull. The first hoist yesterday of the one Merritt-Chapman derrick failed as those on the grim line of vessels standing by had feared.

Together the two derricks will have a lifting strength of 300 tons, believed sufficient to hoist the stern of the S-51 from the choppy waters.

The undersea craft is 250 feet long and it lies in a sea of 138 feet depth, so that experts in charge believe the vessel easily can be tilted on its nose to allow the stern to stick out. Then the hull will be opened and the 60 hour secret of the submarine revealed.

There has been no indication that any of the men who went down Friday night when the S-51 was rammed by the coastwise steamer City of Rome is alive. Rescue has been so long delayed that no real hope is held out for the survival of a single man. At the most, it is said, six men, for whom there was room in the air chambers may have survived.

A plan during the night to permit two civilian divers to explore the submerged craft was abandoned because of the high seas which made it difficult to attend the divers from the top. Diving work was resumed early today.

In spite of the pessimism, Admiral H. H. Christy, aboard the U. S. S. Camden, in charge of the rescue operations, kept his men to their tasks lest no more than necessary time be lost.

YELLOW RIVER IN CHINA ENDANGERS HOMES OF 2 MILLION

Peking, Sept. 28—(UP)—A fresh break in the banks of the Yellow river today endangered the homes of two million residents of the Shantung peninsula.

Fifteen hundred square miles are flooded within the area, increasing hourly. Reports received here estimate that a hundred have been drowned.

Geologists fear the river course will be altered to advance to a former outlet in Kiang Su province. The flood is described as the worst in China since 1887.

PLANE PB-1 SEEKING REPAIRS, FURTHER DAMAGED

FORCED DOWN IN MIDOCEAN, CREW IS BELIEVED TO BE SAFE

WAS FLYING FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

Washington, Sept. 28—(UP)—The giant seaplane PB-1 built for the nonstop coast to Hawaii flight on which the PN9-1 was froced on which the PN9-1 was forced down at sea by engine trouble in an attempted flight from San Francisco to Seattle, the navy department was advised today.

The PB-1 was flying to Seattle to the aircraft factory there where repairs and modifications ordered by naval experts after tests were to be made.

The crew is believed safe. Unofficial advices in the message from the naval inspector at Seattle said that the seaplane was picked up by a destroyer and was being towed in. The tail of the plane was damaged in towing. The navy department's message said:

"PB-1 forced to land near Ilwaco, Wash., due to engine trouble. No official word was received but understand plane towed to port by destroyer and is safe. Boeing company sending material to repair damage to tail, injured in towing and spare engine parts on way from San Francisco. Estimate repairs will delay arrival at Seattle for several days."

PLANE RETURNED FOR REPAIR WORK

Astoria, Ore., Sept. 28—(UP)—The Seaplane PB-1 enroute from San Francisco to Seattle, was delayed here today by engine trouble and probably will not be able to complete her voyage until the latter part of the week.

The giant Boeing plane was forced down at Ilwaco, Wash., yesterday afternoon a little more than two hours after leaving Coos Bay. The plane was towed here later.

The PB-1 is being returned to the factory at Seattle for repairs.

APPEAL MADE BY SCOPES IS CONTINUED 20 DAYS

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(UP)—The appeal in the case of John Thomas Scopes, convicted Dayton evolution teacher, was continued for 20 days today when it came before the Tennessee supreme court.

The first motion filed as court convened was a request by State's Attorney General Thompson and John R. Neal, chief counsel for Scopes, that they be given 20 days to file an assignment of errors regarding the trial at Dayton last July when Scopes was found guilty and fined $100. The request was granted.

After the defense files its assignment Attorney General Thompson announced he would ask an additional 10 days to make reply, indicating that actual argument will be started about November 1.

SHENANDOAH INQUIRY ON TO WASHINGTON

MAY BE REMOVED THERE, MORE ACCESSIBLE TO WITNESSES

THE NAVY'S SEVEREST CRITICS, MITCHELL AND HEINEN, TO BE CALLED

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 28—UP—Owing to the difficulties in bringing witnesses to Lakehurst, and accomodating them the naval authorities are considering moving the Shenandoah inquiry to Washington, it was learned today.

If the court adjourns and then reconvenes at Washington, it will not be until it is reconvened that the navy's severest critics, Colonel William Mitchell and Captain Anton Heinen, will be called.

Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of the Shenandoah's commander, has been invited to appear before the court and make any statement she desires. Just after the wreck Mrs Lansdowne said her husband had been trying to avoid taking his ship into the middle west for over a year.

There was nothing to prevent the normal functioning of the automatic safety valves on gas cells of the Shenandoah during the final stages of the Ohio storm, which wrecked the dirigible, Lieutenant Roland G. Mayer told the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster today.

Lieutenant Mayer opposed the theory that the valves did not operate as they should because "Jam pot" covers had not been removed and that the bags expanded and by their pressure ruptured the airship's framework.

The jam pot covers were adapted from England where they are used extensively, Mayer said.

AMERICAN OFFER ON FRENCH FUNDING IS TO BE REJECTED

NEGOTIATIONS TO BE BROUGHT TO CRISIS BY JOSEPH CAILLAUX

STANDS FIRM ON THE ORIGINAL OFFER HE MADE ON THURSDAY

Washington, Sept. 28—The American proposal for funding the $4,200,000,000 French debt to the United States today will be rejected by Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux, bringing the negotiations to a crisis

Standing to his original offer, submitted Thursday, the leader of the French debt mission will submit no new proposition.

He will offer to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his colleagues a lengthy document analyzing the American offer and pointing out its destructive repercussions upon French finance.

He will then read in English a carefully prepared speech explaining the original French offer, line by line, and clause by clause, and conclude by stating that the offer was not a feeler as it has been interpreted but a plan which represented all that his commission thinks France is capable of doing.

To encourage further efforts toward a settlement however, he will explain that he is not stubborn in his position and all that he asks is latitude to set forth the difficulties of French finance and an opportunity to hear the arguments from the American side. To this end he will ask a detailed explanation of the American offer by Mellon. It is still insisted in authoritative quarters that a settlement can and will eventuate.

"The negotiations are progressing toward a settlement," said Under Secretary of the Treasury Winston optimistically today.

ANY OFFICER WHO TALKS ON THE AIR SERVICE GETS THE AIR

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Discussion of the air defense of the United States was placed on the forbidden list for officers by Brigadier General Castner, commander of the first cavalry division of Fort Bliss, here today.

"Any officer of my command who talks about the air controversy will be court martialed and put where he will never again be able to talk," Castner declared in a statement to newspapermen who sought information as to the condition of the aerial equipment of the fort.

Castner implied criticism of the "talking policy" of Col. William Mitchell, army air critic.

"There will be no 'Colonel Mitchell' on the Fort Bliss reservation," he declared. "This idea of letting a bunch of officers run around the country criticizing their superiors does not make an army. It makes a bunch of bolsheviki in uniform.

"Discipline is the first thing that a soldier should learn. As long as I am an officer no one is going to talk unless I tell him he may."

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF MILWAUKEE ARCHDIOCESE

Milwaukee, Sept. 28.—(UP)—High dignitaries of the church, including Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, war veterans, seminarians, boy scouts, clergy, nuns and laymen took part in the celebration of the golden jubilee of the Milwaukee archdiocese here yesterday.

Thousands of persons crowded into the Marquette university stadium where the ceremonies were held.

The celebration marked 50 years of progress in the Milwaukee archdiocese, which was highly praised by Cardinal Mundelein in his address. Ill health prevented the presence of Archbishop Sebastian G. Messmer at the afternoon exercises at the stadium although he was present at the morning exercises.

Among other prominent dignitaries present were Rt. Rev. Gabriel Pinten, bishop of Superior and Rt. Rev. Alexander McGavick, bishop of La Crosse.

MINNESOTA MOTORISTS FACE HEAVY FOG

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Minnesota motorists faced a typical "London fog" today, forcing them to walk ahead of the cars to avoid accidents. Cities in the central section of the state reported the heaviest mist.

Automobiles arriving here from St. Cloud, Little Falls and other cities in that territory reported visibility less than 50 feet.

State Oil Inspection Department Examination

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Civil service examinations were held at the capitol here today for 48 applicants for positions in the reorganized state oil inspection department. Changes in the department have been proposed and successful applicants will be eligible for any new positions which may be created.

CRAPS SHOOTING IN PRISON BROKEN UP WITH SOUP

Milwaukee, Sept. 28.—(UP)—It may become necessary to serve soup only to colored prisoners at the county jail, according to attaches, in an effort to break up an epidemic of "craps" shooting. Raw potatoes, lump sugar, even little cubes of soap have been utilized by prisoners in "African golf." Jailer Joseph Zupfer has confiscated the home made "ivories" and will keep watch in the future, as he believes shooting dice lowers the high moral standard of the jail.

NEW DIRECTOR PLANS NO CHANGE IN LIQUOR FORCE

RHINOW TO ANNOUNCE POLICY AFTER SITUATION IS CANVASSED

LESTER NELSON ASSIGNED TO NORTHWEST AS LEGAL ADVISOR

St. Paul, Sept. 28—(UP)—General W. F. Rhinow, new prohibition director for the northwest, returned from Washington to assume duties of the office.

Rhinow said he was contemplating no changes in the personnel of his force at present. He said an announcement of policy would be made later when he familiarizes himself more thoroughly with the situation.

Lester E. Nelson, five years an assistant to the legal bureau of the prohibition department at Washington, has been assigned to the northwest district as legal advisor, Rhinow announced.

Until the fifth floor of the postoffice here is prepared for occupancy, the prohibition offices will continue to be lin Minneapolis. Rhinow will take over direction of the force immediately.

WISCONSIN VOTERS REFUSE TO BECOME A BIT EXCITED

WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN FOR SENATORSHIP MAY CAUSE ONLY LIGHT VOTE

YOUNG LA FOLLETTE CLOSES STUMPING TOUR TONIGHT AT WAUKESHA

By J. E. HELFERT
United Press Staff Correspondent

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 28.—Despite a whirlwind campaign during which candidates have spoken in all sections of the state, Wisconsin voters refuse to become excited over the special senatorial election tomorrow and indications are a light vote will be cast.

Robert M. La Follette, republican nominee for the seat left vacant by the death of his father, closes his stumping tour tonight with an addres at Waukesha, after which he will return to his home at Madison and await the final returns of the election.

Edward F. Dithmar, regular republican, running as an independent, closes his short campaign with a talk at Baraboo, his home town.

John M. Work, socialist nominee, closes his speaking campaign in Milwaukee today.

William George Bruce, democratic and George Bauman, socialist labor, both running as independents, have yet to start their campaign. They have made no public appearance since the primaries.

While the race has been seething with attacks and counter attacks, the voters thus far have shown little interest and dopsters predict an exceptionally light vote tomorrow.

Both Dithmar and La Follette made predictions they will be elected.

Dithmar in predicting his victory said he expected to carry a number of counties in the western part of the state and also make substantial gains upon La Follette in the Lake Shore counties north of Milwaukee.

La Follette while not making any mention of the counties which he expects to carry, declared he believed the voters of the state will elect him tothe senate, knowing he will carry out the program of his late father.

Predictions are lacking from work, Bruce and Bauman camps.

Killed by Gas Fumes

St. Paul—Gas fumes ended a five year friendship Friday night when Carl Adolphson, 72, was found dead, and Peter Nelson, 65, in critical condition in their apartment. All gas jets were open.

COMMERCIAL PLANES IN RELIABILITY TOUR FOR TROPHY

Ford Airport, Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Headed by E. K. Campbell, 17 airplanes were all safely in the air at 10:44 this morning in the first annual commercial airplane reliability tour for the Ford trophy.

The tour will carry the ships over a 1,900 mile course to Kansas City and bring them back to Detroit Saturday. It is the most gruelling test yet given a fleet of commercial planes.

Judging of the winner will be based upon lines established years ago in the automobile Glidden tours.

BARTERING OF PRIVILEGES IN COOK COUNTY JAIL

FRESH EVIDENCE OF SO-CALLED DELINQUINCIES TO BE GIVEN AT CHICAGO

CLAIM MADE NOW THAT PRIVILEGES WERE BARTERED BY GUARDS

Chicago, Sept. 28—(UP)—Fresh evidence of so-called "bartering of special privileges" in the Cook county jail was to be given today in federal court. Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, millionaire "beer barons," to serve one year in the jail, is investigating charges that they bought privileges from their guards.

Druggan, who started his story of the affair last Friday, was to continue today. Already he and Lake have admtted paying several thousand dollars to Wesley Westbrook, deposed warden, and three of his assistants. Druggan says there is much more to tell.

When Druggan's story is complete Hans Thompson, one of Westbrook's aides, is to be called. He has indicated he will tell everything, but it is believed he will deny Lake's charges that he accepted money.

Westbrook, who is suffering a nervous breakdown, is preparing a defense, claming that any privileges extended to Druggan and Lake were given by a "higher authority," the sheriff's office. Both of the beer barons however insisted they hardly knew Sheriff Hoffman and never made any payments to him or anyone in his office.

New Names Added to Scandal

New names were added to the Cook county jail scandal when Terry Druggan resumed telling his story in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's contempt inquiry today.

John Swantes and Fred Strassheim, former assistant jail superintendents, also shared in the profits of the special privileges traffic, Druggan testified. Both men received $200 a month for making life easy for Druggan and Frankie Lake, beer barons, while they were serving a one year term for violating the Volstead act, the former declared.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS BACK AL SMITH AS STANDARD BEARER

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Illinois democrats are behind Governor Al Smith for the party's presidential candidate in 1928, George Brennan, democratic chief of the state, declared today following Sunday's huge turnout for Smith.

Fully 100,000 men and women jammed their way into the Beverly Hills district where Brennan and Mayor William Dever staged a demonstration in honor of the New York governor.

Before Smith returned to New York he had conferences with party leaders from various parts of the country, including Martin Lueck and James Callahan, Milwaukee, and W. J. Quinn, St. Paul.

ABE GINSBERG, TWIN CITY LAWYER HELD WITHOUT BAIL

ARRESTED SATURDAY AND TO BE CHARGED WITH SUBORNATION OF PERJURY

TWO FEDERAL DEPARTMENTS COMBINE TO "CLEAN UP" LIQUOR GANG

St. Paul, Sept. 28—(UP)—Abe Ginsberg, prominent Twin Cities attorney, was held without bail and seven others were hunted by police today as a result of affidavits filed by Ben and Abe Gleeman, serving life sentences for the murder of Burton Stevens in the bootleg war last winter.

The affidavits, purporting to expose a "Million Dollar Liquor syndicate," were filed to support an application for retrial of the Gleemans. Ginsberg is to be charged with subornation of perjury. He was arrested Saturday and held without bail over the week end despite applications of his friend for immediate release.

Meanwhile two federal departments were cooperating in an effort to investigate the Gleemans charges with a view to deporting the alien members of the liquor ring. LaFayette French, United States district attorney, and W. F. Rhinow, newly appointed prohibition administrator, were combining forces to clean up the gang to which the Gleeman brothers belonged.

Efforts to obtain bail for Ginsberg were to be renewed today. County Attorney H. H. Peterson, who was responsible for Ginsberg's arrest, said he would make formal charges against him. Ginsberg was one of the counsel for the Gleeman's in their two trials and is now charged with framing the defense to protect their employers.

The Gleemans maintained through their trials that a hired gunman from the outside murdered Stevens. These affidavits named the gunman as Morire Miller, St. Louis. Police at St. Louis know nothing of Miller, but say it is possible he can be identified later by description.

The sensational charges contained in the affidavits intended to reopen the murder case, have created considerable stir in the twin cities. The Gleemans named numerous influential persons along with Ginsberg as conspirators in the liquor ring. They said the facts now made known were suppressed during their trials because of a threat of death held over them.

Ginsberg Formally Charged

Abe Ginsberg was today formally charged with subornation of perjury in connection with their trial and release on $15,000 bond.

Ginsberg's arerst Saturday grew out of affidavits filed by the Gleemans in support of their application for retrial. They charged Ginsberg with "framing" their trial to protect "higher ups" in the million dollar liquor syndicate for which the Gleemans were alleged to have worked.

Seven other implicated in the charges are being hunted by police. Ginsberg is the only one arrested so far as a result of the sensational charges made in the Gleemans' affidavits. They are all named for complicity in "railroading" the Gleemans in a charge of killing Burt Stevens.

Ginsberg, accompanied by his lawyers, Tom Davis, Minneapolis, gubernatorial candidate at the last election and Thomas McMeekin, St. Paul, appeared early this afternoon before Judge Charles Bechhoefer. After fixing bond the case was continued until Wednesday.

PLANE RETURNED FOR REPAIR WORK

Astoria, Ore., Sept. 28—(UP)—The Seaplane PB-1 enroute from San Francisco to Seattle, was delayed here today by engine trouble and probably will not be able to complete her voyage until the latter part of the week.

The giant Boeing plane was forced down at Ilwaco, Wash., yesterday afternoon a little more than two hours after leaving Coos Bay. The plane was towed here later.

The PB-1 is being returned to the factory at Seattle for repairs.

APPEAL MADE BY SCOPES IS CONTINUED 20 DAYS

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(UP)—The appeal in the case of John Thomas Scopes, convicted Dayton evolution teacher, was continued for 20 days today when it came before the Tennessee supreme court.

The first motion filed as court convened was a request by State's Attorney General Thompson and John R. Neal, chief counsel for Scopes, that they be given 20 days to file an assignment of errors regarding the trial at Dayton last July when Scopes was found guilty and fined $100. The request was granted.

After the defense files its assignment Attorney General Thompson announced he would ask an additional 10 days to make reply, indicating that actual argument will be started about November 1.

SHENANDOAH INQUIRY ON TO WASHINGTON

MAY BE REMOVED THERE, MORE ACCESSIBLE TO WITNESSES

THE NAVY'S SEVEREST CRITICS, MITCHELL AND HEINEN, TO BE CALLED

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 28—UP—Owing to the difficulties in bringing witnesses to Lakehurst, and accomodating them the naval authorities are considering moving the Shenandoah inquiry to Washington, it was learned today.

If the court adjourns and then reconvenes at Washington, it will not be until it is reconvened that the navy's severest critics, Colonel William Mitchell and Captain Aoton Heinen, will be called.

Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of the Shenandoah's commander, has been invited to appear before the court and make any statement she desires. Just after the wreck Mrs Lansdowne said her husband had been trying to avoid taking his ship into the middle west for over a year.

There was nothing to prevent the normal functioning of the automatic safety valves on gas cells of the Shenandoah during the final stages of the Ohio storm, which wrecked the dirigible, Lieutenant Roland G. Mayer told the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster today.

Lieutenant Mayer opposed the theory that the valves did not operate as they should because "Jam pot" covers had not been removed and that the bags expanded and by their pressure ruptured the airship's framework.

The jam pot covers were adapted from England where they are used extensively, Mayer said.

AMERICAN OFFER ON FRENCH FUNDING IS TO BE REJECTED

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 28.—Despite a whirlwind campaign during which candidates have spoken in all sections of the state, Wisconsin voters refuse to become excited over the special senatorial election tomorrow and indications are a light vote will be cast.

Robert M. La Follette, republican nominee for the seat left vacant by the death of his father, closes his stumping tour tonight with an addres at Waukesha, after which he will return to his home at Madison and await the final returns of the election.

Edward F. Dithmar, regular republican, running as an independent, closes his short campaign with a talk at Baraboo, his home town.

John M. Work, socialist nominee, closes his speaking campaign in Milwaukee today.

William George Bruce, democratic and George Bauman, socialist labor, both running as independents, have yet to start their campaign. They have made no public appearance since the primaries.

While the race has been seething with attacks and counter attacks, the voters thus far have shown little interest and dopsters predict an exceptionally light vote tomorrow.

Both Dithmar and La Follette made predictions they will be elected.

Dithmar in predicting his victory said he expected to carry a number of counties in the western part of the state and also make substantial gains upon La Follette in the Lake Shore counties north of Milwaukee.

La Follette while not making any mention of the counties which he expects to carry, declared he believed the voters of the state will elect him tothe senate, knowing he will carry out the program of his late father.

Predictions are lacking from work, Bruce and Bauman camps.

COMMERCIAL PLANES IN RELIABILITY TOUR FOR TROPHY

Ford Airport, Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Headed by E. K. Campbell, 17 airplanes were all safely in the air at 10:44 this morning in the first annual commercial airplane reliability tour for the Ford trophy.

The tour will carry the ships over a 1,900 mile course to Kansas City and bring them back to Detroit Saturday. It is the most gruelling test yet given a fleet of commercial planes.

Judging of the winner will be based upon lines established years ago in the automobile Glidden tours.

BARTERING OF PRIVILEGES IN COOK COUNTY JAIL

FRESH EVIDENCE OF SO-CALLED DELINQUINCIES TO BE GIVEN AT CHICAGO

CLAIM MADE NOW THAT PRIVILEGES WERE BARTERED BY GUARDS

Chicago, Sept. 28—(UP)—Fresh evidence of so-called "bartering of special privileges" in the Cook county jail was to be given today in federal court. Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, millionaire "beer barons," to serve one year in the jail, is investigating charges that they bought privileges from their guards.

Druggan, who started his story of the affair last Friday, was to continue today. Already he and Lake have admtted paying several thousand dollars to Wesley Westbrook, deposed warden, and three of his assistants. Druggan says there is much more to tell.

When Druggan's story is complete Hans Thompson, one of Westbrook's aides, is to be called. He has indicated he will tell everything, but it is believed he will deny Lake's charges that he accepted money.

Westbrook, who is suffering a nervous breakdown, is preparing a defense, claming that any privileges extended to Druggan and Lake were given by a "higher authority," the sheriff's office. Both of the beer barons however insisted they hardly knew Sheriff Hoffman and never made any payments to him or anyone in his office.

New Names Added to Scandal

New names were added to the Cook county jail scandal when Terry Druggan resumed telling his story in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's contempt inquiry today.

John Swantes and Fred Strassheim, former assistant jail superintendents, also shared in the profits of the special privileges traffic, Druggan testified. Both men received $200 a month for making life easy for Druggan and Frankie Lake, beer barons, while they were serving a one year term for violating the Volstead act, the former declared.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS BACK AL SMITH AS STANDARD BEARER

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Illinois democrats are behind Governor Al Smith for the party's presidential candidate in 1928, George Brennan, democratic chief of the state, declared today following Sunday's huge turnout for Smith.

Fully 100,000 men and women jammed their way into the Beverly Hills district where Brennan and Mayor William Dever staged a demonstration in honor of the New York governor.

Before Smith returned to New York he had conferences with party leaders from various parts of the country, including Martin Lueck and James Jallahan, Milwaukee, and W. J. Quinn, St. Paul.

ABE GINSBERG, TWIN CITY LAWYER HELD WITHOUT BAIL

ARRESTED SATURDAY AND TO BE CHARGED WITH SUBORNATION OF PERJURY

TWO FEDERAL DEPARTMENTS COMBINE TO "CLEAN UP" LIQUOR GANG

St. Paul, Sept. 28—(UP)—Abe Ginsberg, prominent Twin Cities attorney, was held without bail and seven others were hunted by police today as a result of affidavits filed by Ben and Abe Gleeman, serving life sentences for the murder of Burton Stevens in the bootleg war last winter.

The affidavits, purporting to expose a "Million Dollar Liquor syndicate," were filed to support an application for retrial of the Gleemans. Ginsberg is to be charged with subornation of perjury. He was arrested Saturday and held without bail over the week end despite applications of his friend for immediate release.

Meanwhile two federal departments were cooperating in an effort to investigate the Gleemans charges with a view to deporting the alien members of the liquor ring. LaFayette French, United States district attorney, and W. F. Rhinow, newly appointed prohibition administrator, were combining forces to clean up the gang to which the Gleeman brothers belonged.

Efforts to obtain bail for Ginsberg were to be renewed today. County Attorney H. H. Peterson, who was responsible for Ginsberg's arrest, said he would make formal charges against him. Ginsberg was one of the counsel for the Gleeman's in their two trials and is now charged with framing the defense to protect their employers.

The Gleemans maintained through their trials that a hired gunman from the outside murdered Stevens. These affidavits named the gunman as Morire Miller, St. Louis. Police at St. Louis know nothing of Miller, but say it is possible he can be identified later by description.

The sensational charges contained in the affidavits intended to reopen the murder case, have created considerable stir in the twin cities. The Gleemans named numerous influential persons along with Ginsberg as conspirators in the liquor ring. They said the facts now made known were suppressed during their trials because of a threat of death held over them.

Ginsberg Formally Charged

Abe Ginsberg was today formally charged with subornation of perjury in connection with their trial and release on $15,000 bond.

Ginsberg's arerst Saturday grew out of affidavits filed by the Gleemans in support of their application for retrial. They charged Ginsberg with "framing" their trial to protect "higher ups" in the million dollar liquor syndicate for which the Gleemans were alleged to have worked.

Seven other implicated in the charges are being hunted by police. Ginsberg is the only one arrested so far as a result of the sensational charges made in the Gleemans' affidavits. They are all named for complicity in "railroading" the Gleemans in a charge of killing Burt Stevens.

Ginsberg, accompanied by his lawyers, Tom Davis, Minneapolis, gubernatorial candidate at the last election and Thomas McMeekin, St. Paul, appeared early this afternoon before Judge Charles Bechhoefer. After fixing bond the case was continued until Wednesday.

"I Never Dreamed There Was That Much"

That remark was made by a young lady who brought her bank in to us the other day to be opened. She had been dropping in the nickels and dimes that came to her from week to week, and she was absolutely astonished when we opened the little bank and counted her savings.

She started a savings account and will use the same system again.

A dime a day, remember, means $35.00 in a year, and that doesn't include the interest. That's how it accumulates.

Learn to save a little every day. It doesn't mean any sacrifice. You will enjoy the saving game when you get a savings account started at this bank.

know the value of being careful. Often their lives, or those of others, depend on the discovery of some small defect—a broken rail, a defective brake, a loose bar on a freight car ladder.

Railroad men and others who invest should use great care to avoid financial accidents. Don't take the word of the stock salesman, perhaps a comparative stranger. Check up on his statements by consulting your banker before you buy.

BEARISH NEWS FROM EUROPE DEPRESSES WHEAT

RECORD BREAKING MOVEMENT OF SPRING WHEAT IS ALSO FACTOR

SEPTEMBER WHEAT WAS REPORTED AS OFF 4 CENTS AT $1.35

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Bearish news from Europe and a record breaking movement of spring wheat in Canada caused further wheat depression on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

September wheat was off 4 cents at $1.35, a new low for the present season. December was off 4⅝ cents at $1.36⅛ and May off 4¼ cents at $1.39.

These drops represent a total decrease of 18 cents in the last week.

CALL MONEY ADVANCES

New York, Sept. 28.—Stocks were unsettled at the start of the new week by an advance in call money to 5½ from the renewal rate of 4½. In view of the $1,900,000 surplus showed by Saturday's clearing house statement, $1,300,000 in the previous week, this tightening was somewhat unexpected. But requirements incident to the end of the month necessitated the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans accounting for the stiffening in demand rates.

This development was used by professional operators as a basis for an energetic drive on prices. United States Steel was subjected to concentrated selling which finally spread to the whole market and resulted in substantial recessions among the industrial leaders.

Rails were also freely offered and the market as a whole displayed a heavy tone most of the day.

The market closed higher.

CLAIMS BUS LINES IN RAIL AREA NOT NEEDED

BUSES ARE CONVENIENT BUT ARE NOT A REAL NECESSITY

ASSERTION MADE AT HEARING BY OMAHA PASSENGER AGENT

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Bus lines in the same territory served by railroads may be convenient but they are not necessary, A. L. Pardee, assistant general passenger agent for the Omaha railroad, told the State Railroad and Warehouse commission hearing testimony on an application of the Boulevard Transportation company for a bus permit here today.

Pardee occupied the witnes stand most of the morning following reopening of the hearing started last week in Mankato. He said he was opposed to the petition of the Boulevard Transportation company, a holding of the Great Northern railroad, in its present form. Railroads can adequantely serve any section of the state, he declared.

The petition asks a permit to establish bus lines connecting the Twin Cities, Mankato, Worthington and Fairmont. Testimony both opposing and upholding necessity of the line was heard at the opening sessions.

F. W. Matson, chairman of the commission, said the hearing probably would be closed late today and the petition taken under advisement.

MAN WITH MANY JOBS TO FACE A CHARGE OF FORGERY

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Clarence F. Green, Milwaukee law student, aviator, salesman and chicken rancher, will face charges of forgery here before he is surrendered to Milwaukee police for prosecution on a $20,000 swindle count, the prosecuting attorney's office announced today.

Green is charged with forging the name of the owner of the house in which he lived to obtain a loan of $3,500 on the property.

The deputy prosecutor said today that Green or Howard, as he is known here, had admitted his defalcation in Seattle and has said he will plead guilty to the Milwaukee charge.

BOY OF 10 COMMITS SUICIDE BY HANGING

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Police and the coroner today sought a reason for the hanging of Louis Marts, 10, believed to be the youngest suicide in the history of Iowa.

Marts was found hanging from a rafter in his father's barn last evening. The boy used a manger for the scaffold.

Ira Marts, the father, said he could give no reason for the suicide.

BOY OF 13 ALSO HANGS SELF

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Because he was locked in his bedroom as a matter of discipline Donald Povant, 13, committed suicide last night by hanging himself from a bed.

The boy made a noose of his belt and strangled himself by tying it to the bed and swinging himself against the noose.

WINDS of CHANCE by Rex Beach

Published by Arrangement with First National Pictures, Inc., and Frank Lloyd Productions, Inc.

McCaskey got no further, for with a cry of rage Pierce Phillips set his muscles and landed upon him. It was a mighty blow and it found lodgment upon the side of its victim's face.

Jim McCaskey went down and his assailant, maddened completely by the feel of his enemy's flesh, lunged forward to stamp him beneath his heels. But stout arms seized him, bodies intervened, and he was hurled backward. A shout arose; there was a general scramble for the raised platform. There were yells of:

"Shame!"

"Hang on to him!"

"Stretch him up!"

"Dirty ingrate!"

Phillips fought with desperation; his struggles caused the structure to creak and to strain; men piled over it and joined in the fight. He was whining and sobbing in his fury.

Meanwhile ready hands had rescued Jim from the trampling feet and now held his limp body erect.

It was the clarion call of the Countess Courteau which first made itself heard above the din. She had climbed to the railing and was poised there with one arm outflung, a quivering finger leveled at Jim McCaskey's head.

The Countess, too, had evidently made haste, for she was breathing deeply.

'Look!' she cried. "Look, men—at his head! There's proof that he's been lying!" The victim of the assault had lost his cap in the scuffle, and with it had gone the bandage. His head was bare now, and, oddly enough, it showed no matted hair, no cut, no bruise, no swelling. It was, in fact, a perfectly normal, healthy, well-preserved cranium.

Phillips ceased his struggles; he passed a shaking hand over his eyes to clear his vision; his captors released him and crowded closer to Jim McCaskey, who was now showing the first signs of returning consciousness.

"He told you he was held up—that his skull was cracked, didn't he?" The Countess threw back her head and laughed unrestrainedly. "My! But you men are fools! Now, then, who do you suppose got young Phillips' money? Use your wits, men."

There was a great craning of necks, a momentary hush, the while Jim McCaskey rolled his head loosely, opened his eyes, and stared wildly about.

The Countess bent down toward him, and now her cheeks had grown white, her blue eyes were flaming.

"Well, my man," she cried, in a shaking voice, "now you know what kind of a woman I am. 'Counting percentage checks,' eh?" She seemed upon the point of reacting out and throttling Jim with her long, strong fingers. 'Let's see you and your precious brother do a little counting. Count out a thousand dollars for this boy. Quick!"

It was 'Poleon Doret who searched the palsied victim. While other hands restrained the older brother he went through the younger one and, having done so, handed Pierce Phillips a bulky envelope addressed in the latter's handwriting.

"She's yours, eh?" 'Poleon inquired.

Phillips made a hasty examination, then nodded.

The Countess turned once more to the crowd. "I move that you apologize to Mr. Phillips. Are you game?" Her question met with a yell of approval. "Now, then, there's a new case on the docket, and the charge is highway robbery. Are you ready to vote a verdict?" Her face was set, her eyes still flashed.

"Guilty!" came with a roar.

'Very well. Hang the ruffians if you feel like it!"

She leaped down from her vantage point, and without a word, without a glance behind her, set out along the Dyea trail.

ST. PAUL HAS SERIES OF MISHAPS

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Five violent deaths and 13 serious injuries were reported to twin cities police over the week end. The coroner pronounced two of the deaths suicide.

Andrew Bloomquist, 62, an invalid for more than a year, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. He lived in Minneapolis.

Arthur Edner, 30, an insane patient returning to La Crosse, Wis., from Tacoma, Wash., accompanied by his uncle, J. A. Benedict, leaped from a bridge over the Mississippi river at Minneapolis and drowned.

Walter Hayner, a brakeman, 40, was found dead on the St. Paul road tracks. His right arm had been severed and his body badly mangled. The coroner said a train had passed over his body.

Fred Prienert, 39, a gassed and shell shocked veteran of the world war, was found dead on a sidewalk here. There was nothing to indicate the cause of death.

James Whitehead, 55, Fargo, N. D., telephone lineman, died at a hospital in Minneapolis from injuries suffered in a fall from a telephone pole at Minneapolis, September 10. His spine was fractured.

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—W. P. Christianson is in serious condition from burns received while attempting to pass an aerial wire over a power line. Peter Hoggman, Pittsburgh, Pa., is also in critical condition from injuries received in a fall from a porch. Jack Flood is in a hospital with serious cuts in his head and shoulders. Peter Anderson also suffered injuries in a street fight.

Other less serious injuries resulted from automobile accidents.

ANOKA FILLING STATION HELD UP

Anoka, Minn., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Two bandits today held up the John Hancock Oil company filling station here and escaped with $250 in cash. Lowell Anderson, the attendant, was abducted after the robbery and left on the roadside three miles from the city.

ARMY AIR MEN WANT ACTUAL FLIERS PLACED IN CONTROL

MAJOR W. G. KILNER SO TESTIFIES AT AIRCRAFT BOARD HEARING

SAYS PRESENT SYSTEM PRODUCING DISSATISFACTION AMONG THE MEN

By WILLIAM J. MCEVOY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 28—Army air men are convinced that if the United States air defense is to be made effective it must be taken out of the hands of those now in control and operated by "actual flying men" Major W. G. Kilner, executive officer in the army air service, told the president's special aircraft board today.

Kilner, who had charge of all aviation training during the war, declared that there was great dissatisfaction among pilots with the present system.

A reorganization to establish a separate air unit, as recommended by Major General Patrick, was advocated by Kilner, the first witness when hearings were resumed by the board in a crowded house committee room today.

Rumors that officers who testified in opposition to department policies would be dealt with were met by denials from the chiefs of the war and navy departments in a statement by Chairman Dwight Mororw that 'he had no recollection" of interference by either department."

Colonel William Mitchell's proposal, the unified air service plan, was expected to receive support from some pilots slated to appear. Several aviators who will testify today also appeared before the aircraft committee last session and came out for the single service plan.

"We have the best pursuit planes and training planes in the world," Kilner said.

Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, democrat, asked Kilner to explain what he meant when he said there was "dissatisfaction among the men."

"There is first," Kilner said, "a slowness of action. When we want to do anything we can't do it speedily. We are hampered by unavoidable delays.

'Then there seems to be a lack of comprehension of our problems by authorities. I mean in the department, not in congress. We never asked congress for anything we did not get.

"Then we are hampered by the fact that all our officers are junior grades.

"The recommendations of our first lieutenants does not carry much weight when there are brigadier generals around."

"It is the consensus of flyers that we are not going to get anywhere now and if we are going to get anywhere, flying men will have to be placed in control," Kilner said.

"I personally favor adoption of the recommendations of General Patrick for formation of an air unit along the lines of the marine corps."

A dozen other war aviators in their trim uniforms sat behind Kilner waiting to give the committee the demands of the men who fly.

When the board convened Chairman Morrow notified officers present that their personal opinions on aviation were sought. Morrow read letters from Secretary Wilbur and acting Secretary of War Davis, emphasizing that testimony of flyers did not have to be in consonance with department policies.

Kilner was insistent that immediate action is necessary.

"The fault of the present organization," said Kilner, "is not due to personalities. We should have some one who could do more than make recommendations.

"The air corps plan advanced by General Patrick has been attacked on the assumption that it would interefere with unity of command. If the independence of the marine corps work so well in the navy department why would not the proposed separate corps work equally as well in the war department?"

Kilner said young men with years of active aviation experience behind them should be placed in charge of a separate corps.

From its inception the air service has been inadequate, Kilner said. In 1913 France had 611 planes, Germany 428, Russia 200, England 168 and the United States 55, he said.

"And yet with our war lesson before us, we still maintain a ration that is at times even worse," Kilner said. "Thus we are slowly but surely progressing—backwards.

"What we need is an ar service consolidated from the army, navy and marine corps by flying men, with a flyer at the head, who has power to make his own decisions."

Major Royce Testifies

Major Ralph Royce, commander of the commercial air at San Antonio was the next witness. He echoed Kilner's sentiments.

"I have been inspected at Brooks Field in the last year and a half by 11 generals, but not one of them has ever inspected a plane," he said.

"What do they inspect?" Dwight Morrow, chairman of the board asked

"Oh, nothing of the men and condition of the barracks and the mess quarters.

"I make hundreds of recommendations, but I never hear from them. But when some general inspects our quarters and finds something he does not like I soon get orders to make changes. Half of the time I have already recommended the changes or improvements that some general has suggested."

Major H. M. Hickam on Stand

Major H. M. Hickam, the third witness, was asked how much extra pay he had received for over a year.

"I don't know," he said. "The amount of work I do and the pay I get have no relations to each other. I have no interest in pay. It's enough to live on and the quarters I get to live in are satisfactory."

The officers laughed and the crowd laughed.

"The real trouble," said Hickam, goes much deeper."

Hickam said the separate aviation corps proposal was reasonable but inadequate.

"We are sure to get another department of defense when another war comes, but we should not lose a minute in creating it now," said he.

"I find the men can be divided into two classes—those on the verge of tears and those on the verge of murder over conditions.

"I think we have the finest body of civilians the world affords—I don't think they are to blame. It's the system."

Hickam said that statistics have shown 90 per cent of the air attacks were traced to failure of personnel and only 10 per cent to mechanical defects.

HEAVY SEAS HALT RESCUE OF SUBMARINE

New Delay is Disheartening

The new delay in pushing salvage work came as a disheartening blow, through the rescue area.

Experienced officials interviewed by the United Press offered the opinion there could be no resumption before morning. Even then the elements seemed fighting the navy's work. That the new delay was necesarily fatal was scouted. The hope for life aboard the submarine had thinned even without the word of derrick barges churning off to safety But it was said here that if the men were alive now there was no good reason to suppose they would not be alive tomorrow or several days hence

STUDENT OFFICERS COMMANDED SUB

Washington, Sept. 28—The reported statement that two student officers were in charge of the S-51 when the submarine was rammed and sunk by the steamer City of Rome had nothing to do with the culpability of the crash, it was officially said at the navy department today.

The main fact was that the submarine had the right of way as demonstrated by the fact it was struck on the port side, it was said.

The four student officers on board the craft were skilled navigators on the surface and were students only in the submarine school at New London, it was said.

WALDORF RESTORES "PEACOCK ALLEY"

New York, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Peacock Alley lives again.

The historic corridor of the Waldorf-Astoria, famed in fiction and real life romances of "little old New York," which recently vanished in the inexorable march of progress and prohibition, has been re-born.

The Waldrof management, forced to put in shops along its 34th Street front because it is axiomatic that no hotel in New York can meet expenses now-a-days without this expedient, has reconstructed the famous "alley"—rendezvous of stage, society and lookers on.

As soon as the laths and plaster which accompanied the transition of the ground floor of the ancient hostlery were swept aside, New Yorkers found that Peacock Alley had been restored.

If something of its pristine glory was lost, the "alley" has blossomed nevertheless in new and equally comfortable plush sofas and chairs, whence one can observe the bearers and wearers of all that is newest in the world of fashion.

Fargo as Religious Center

Fargo, N. D.—Fargo has been established as the hub of religious activity in North Dakota by the maintenance of headquarters for four-fifths of the churches and religious organizations in the state. The church survey was recently completed by C. A. Armstrong, secretary of the North Dakota council of religious education.

"I Never Dreamed There Was That Much"

That remark was made by a young lady who brought her bank in to us the other day to be opened. She had been dropping in the nickels and dimes that came to her from week to week, and she was absolutely astonished when we opened the little bank and counted her savings.

She started a savings account and will use the same system again.

A dime a day, remember, means $35.00 in a year, and that doesn't include the interest. That's how it accumulates.

Learn to save a little every day. It doesn't mean any sacrifice. You will enjoy the saving game when you get a savings account started at this bank.

DAY OF AIR FLIVVER IS DAWNING

THE day of the air flivver is dawning. It's to be one with a speed of five miles a minute, same speed made by that navy aviator, Lieut. Williams, who said he expects to fly 500 miles an hour some day.

Lorena A. Hickock, writing in the Minneapolis Tribune, has a vision of thirty or forty million sky-flivvering Americans in Atlantic City for the week-end.

Traffic police will certainly be fly cops. Filling stations will probably have a tank base, hose tower leading to a balloon where a flivver may hang on and refuel. Dropping a monkey wrench from the clouds will be made a penitentiary offense. Towers like the traffic pillars in New York city will mark the air lanes by day and flares by night. Your friend with a forty acre lot, a good landing place, can in all truth invite you to fly over and drop down or in. Henry Ford after congesting all earth's highways, will proceed to fill up the circumambient blue.

Says Miss Hickock: A young man in Minneapolis 25 or 30 years from now should be able to eat a leisurely dinner, dress all up, hop into his flying lizzie and be in Chicago by 8:30, all set to take his girl out to a dance. He could start back from Chicago at 1 a. m. and be home by 2:30.

There was a time, not so many years ago, when a trip to Anoka was an adventure. If you drove, it took all day. You could go by train. But nobody ever took a railroad trip to Anoka to buy an ice cream soda. But nowadays plenty of motorist, driving out in the evening to cool off, take a little ride from Minneapolis to Anoka, have an ice cream soda, turn around and ride home again. They think nothing of it.

Ten years ago, it used to take all day to get to Mille Lacs lake. You used to go up by train, changing cars in the middle of the day, arriving at the station nearest the lake sometime in the afternoon.

This summer thousands of Minneapolitans drove up to Mille Lacs for the weekend. They dashed up Saturday night, fished all day Sunday, and came back Sunday night.

It now takes between 36 and 40 hours to go from Minneapolis to New York City. An over-night trip to Chicago, 24 hours from Chicago to New York. Twenty five or 30 years from now, when everybody rides in planes going five miles a minute—New York will be as near to Minneapolis as Lake Mille Lacs is now.

IN SCHOOL AGAIN

WHAT is an education? The parent, looking back on his own school days and glancing at the array of new text books at the opening of the school this year, is inclined to wonder. How much he learned has been of no practical use to him. How much, on the other hand, gathered out of school during those impressionable years has been of inestimable value.

But certain things do not depart. The ability to study, once acquired, is not quickly lost. Specific knowledge goes if it is not used more or less constantly, but the power to dig into a subject, to gather its essentials and apply them practically, need never go if the student will keep his brain processes in good working order by practice.

Part of what every child learns is this ability to study, to make his memory work for him, to put his brain into harness. Another part is a broad survey of the world, of some of its sciences, a little of its historical and literary traditions.

Education is worthless if it is viewed simply as a means to personal advancement. It should not rest at equipping the individual for a mere competitive existence. There is the solidarity of humanity, the continuous intellectual life inherited from the ages, all something that should early arouse the student's mind. More than that, it should persuade him to take a part in it, to add his quota to the heaped up treasures.

The American public school is a near example of human solidarity, for it recognizes no classes. It has no divisions based on economic lines. Scholarship, not social prestige is the goal sought. The humblest and the highest may meet here and be friends.

Education might be more direct and more efficient if each scholar knew what station in life he would occupy. But part of the great adventure is that no one knows this. There is, however, one destiny for every boy and girl. He is going to be a citizen in a free land. He is going to have to learn to live and work and play with his fellows. He is going to be a part in a great social mechanism destined to advance humanity. The best thing he learns at school is how to get along with his fellows and how to co-operate with them. He has rights and he has duties.

WALTER HAGEN owns a golf course at St. Petersburg, Florida. In playing at the professional tournament in Chicago he gave his address as Pasadena, Florida. We thought that should be corrected, but have ascertained that there is a Pasadena, Florida, a suburb of St. Petersburg, Florida. It seems there is a regular vogue taking California names of cities and adopting them in Florida. Witness also Hollywood, Florida.

THE government is getting generous. Any person who can catch a buffalo bull from the government's herd in Yellowstone National Park may have him—if he pays the costs. This includes express charges and $80 for crating and hauling the beast to the park gateway, Gardiner, Montana, being the nearest shipping point.

EXPLORER ANDREWS reports finding dinosaur eggs in Mongolia a million years old. Another scientist, no doubt an envious one, says Alexander's egg crop of antediluvian days is mere turtle eggs. We say, hatch 'em, and see what kind of a lost world is brought to view.

GEORGE ADE, writing in Cosmopolitan, remembers a time when it was possible for a young gentleman to put on a large evening for the munificent sum of 45 cents. However, it was exceedingly hard in those days to corral the 45 cents.

THAT Chippewa war dance given in Illinois has stirred the ambition of every Illinois man and boy to join the Chippewa Indian tribe. The latest convert and adopted son of the northern warriors is Frank O. Lowden.

ELY has chosen a site for its new 100-room, $250,000 hotel.

CHICAGO'S WEEK END CRIMINAL CARNIVAL LIST

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(UP)—One killed and three wounded was the gun fire toll in Chicago's week end criminal carnival.

Aniello Taddeo, lately arisen to the estate of a bootleg king, stood outside his cafe watching patrons enter. An automobile crawled by, a voice spoke from its interior and Taddeo wheeled as shotgun and revolver shots crashed. He died instantly.

Jacob Karabin, 50, resisted an attempt by two negroes to rob him of $2 and was shot twice in the abdomen. He is in a serious condition and may die.

Louis Sack was seriously wounded by a detective squad which pursued him and a companion. Sack was sighted riding along Chicago's gold coast in an automobile which had been stolen a few minutes before. His pal was captured.

Three were killed in automobile accidents.

ENGLISH DRINKING STILL INCREASES; BEER IS FAVORITE

London, Sept. 23.—(UP)—Drinking is on the increase in England.

Controverting the optimistic assertions of the Prohibitionists that England's days as an oasis for the thirsty are waning comes the official report of the licensing bureau stating that there were 2.6 percent more convictions for drunkenness in England and Wales during 1924 than during 1923.

The report contains other items calculated to stir the envy of the thirsty in arid America. For instance:

Saturday Wettest

Saturday is the wettest day of the week, and contributes 33 percent of the week's total of arrests for drunkenness.

Friday is the second best day, with 16 percent.

Monday is third, with 13 percent.

Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, contribute between 9 and 10 percent each.

There is one saloon to every 535 people.

The number of saloons decreased by 576 during the year; but the number of licensed clubs increased by 318.

Beer is far and away the favorite drink with a consumption of 16.41 gallons during the year for every man, woman and child in the Kingdom.

Whiskey however averaged only a little over a quart a year a head. Experts here draw the conclusion that because of un-employment and low wages the banner sales went to beer as offering more for the money, than whiskey.

Arrests during the year total 79,082 an increase of 1,988 over the previous year.

SUB-TROPICAL VALLEY REPORTED IN ARCTIC

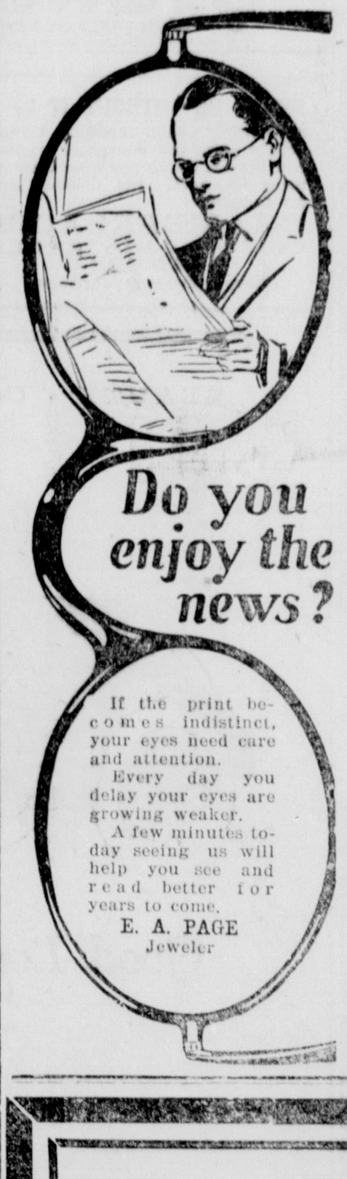

Prince Rupert, B. C., Sept. 23.—(UP)—More tales of a sub-tropical valley near the arctic circle in the upper regions of British Columbia were told here by Colonel J. Scott Williams, of Montreal, who has completed a three months airplane expedition in the district.

The valley lies north of Liard and the northernmost white settlements. There grass and verdure are found in amazing luxuriance. Flowers are enormous and much of the vegetation resembles that of tropical regions.

This strange valley gets its individuality from hot springs. Although the surrounding mountains are covered with snow and ice, the springs keep the valley warm.

As wonderful as the valley seemed to Scott and his mechanic, the airplane was equally as wonderful to the natives in various northern settlements.

They regarded with awe two of their number who were given rides in the airplane.

Public Approval Cannot Be Bought—

—it cannot be coaxed—it must be earned!

When an individual or a group of individuals seeks public approval, the task becomes difficult.

When a private enterprise so large as to be classed as an important unit of big business earns the seal of public approbation, it is an achievement.

That this goal has been reached by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is indicated by the fact that today there are 49,277 stockholders, as against 4623 in 1919.

This splendid increase is prima facie evidence that the public approves the way in which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates. When the public invests its money in a business it is an expression, in a material way, of confidence in the management of the Company.

It is recognition that the policies of the Company are sound and constructive—all of which means that the Directors of this Company have succeeded in getting across to the public, the sincerity of purpose animating its every action.

This has been accomplished in a quiet, orderly fashion, by the simple process of letting every act stand on its own merit and abide the test of time.

Every practice that has been incorporated by this Company is animated by a spirit of service, inspired by the will to serve, and executed with fixed determination that the service rendered to thirty million people of ten Middle Western states should be as complete and comprehensive as human ingenuity, enthusiastic energy and specialized brains can make it.

It is this indomitable will to serve plus an ability to follow through that has earned for this Company the approbation of the general public and an unique place among America's foremost institutions of essential service.

ARMY AIR MEN WANT ACTUAL FLIERS PLACED IN CONTROL

MAJOR W. G. KILNER SO TESTIFIES AT AIRCRAFT BOARD HEARING

SAYS PRESENT SYSTEM PRODUCING DISSATISFACTION AMONG THE MEN

By WILLIAM J. MCEVOY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 28—Army air men are convinced that if the United States air defense is to be made effective it must be taken out of the hands of those now in control and operated by "actual flying men" Major W. G. Kilner, executive officer in the army air service, told the president's special aircraft board today.

Kilner, who had charge of all aviation training during the war, declared that there was great dissatisfaction among pilots with the present system.

A reorganization to establish a separate air unit, as recommended by Major General Patrick, was advocated by Kilner, the first witness when hearings were resumed by the board in a crowded house committee room today.

Rumors that officers who testified in opposition to department policies would be dealt with were met by denials from the chiefs of the war and navy departments in a statement by Chairman Dwight Mororw that 'he had no recollection" of interference by either department."

Colonel William Mitchell's proposal, the unified air service plan, was expected to receive support from some pilots slated to appear. Several aviators who will testify today also appeared before the aircraft committee last session and came out for the single service plan.

"We have the best pursuit planes and training planes in the world," Kilner said.

Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, democrat, asked Kilner to explain what he meant when he said there was "dissatisfaction among the men."

"There is first," Kilner said, "a slowness of action. When we want to do anything we can't do it speedily. We are hampered by unavoidable delays.

'Then there seems to be a lack of comprehension of our problems by authorities. I mean in the department, not in congress. We never asked congress for anything we did not get.

"Then we are hampered by the fact that all our officers are junior grades.

"The recommendations of our first lieutenants does not carry much weight when there are brigadier generals around."

"It is the consensus of flyers that we are not going to get anywhere now and if we are going to get anywhere, flying men will have to be placed in control," Kilner said.

'I personally favor adoption of the recommendations of General Patrick for formation of an air unit along the lines of the marine corps."

A dozen other ,war aviators in their trim uniforms sat behind Kilner waiting to give the committee the demands of the men who fly.

When the board convened Chairman Morrow notified officers present that their personal opinions on aviation were sought. Morrow read letters from Secretary Wilbur and acting Secretary of War Davis,emphasizing that testimony of flyers did not have to be in consonance with department policies.

Kilner was insistent that immediate action is necessary.

"The fault of the present organization," said Kilner, "is not due to personalities. We should have some one who could do more than make recommendations.

"The air corps plan advanced by General Patrick has been attacked on the assumption that it would interefere with unity of command. If the independence of the marine corps work so well in the navy department why would not the proposed separate corps work equally as well in the war department?"

Kilner said young men with years of active aviation experience behind them should be placed in charge of a separate corps.

From its inception the air service has been inadequate, Kilner said. In 1913 France had 611 planes, Germany 428, Russia 200, England 168 and the United States 55, he said.

"And yet with our war lesson before us, we still maintain a ration that is at times even worse," Kilner said. "Thus we are slowly but surely progressing—backwards.

"What we need is an ar service consolidated from the army, navy and marine corps by flying men, with a flyer at the head, who has power to make his own decisions."

Major Royce Testifies

Major Ralph Royce, commander of the commercial air at San Antonio was the next witness. He echoed Kilner's sentiments.

"I have been inspected at Brooks Field in the last year and a half by 11 generals, but not one of them has ever inspected a plane," he said.

"What do they inspect?" Dwight Morrow, chairman of the board asked

"Oh, nothing of the men and condition of the barracks and the mess quarters.

"I make hundreds of recommendations, but I never hear from them. But when some general inspects our quarters and finds something he does not like I soon get orders to make changes. Half of the time I have already recommended the changes or improvements that some general has suggested."

Major H. M. Hickam on Stand

Major H. M. Hickam, the third witness, was asked how much extra pay he had received for over a year.

"I don't know," he said. "The amount of work I do and the pay I get have no relations to each other. I have no interest in pay. It's enough to live on and the quarters I get to live in are satisfactory."

The officers laughed and the crowd laughed.

"The real trouble," said Hickam, goes much deeper."

Hickam said the separate aviation corps proposal was reasonable but inadequate.

"We are sure to get another department of defense when another war comes, but we should not lose a minute in creating it now," said he.

"I find the men can be divided into two classes—those on the verge of tears and those on the verge of murder over conditions.

"I think we have the finest body of civilians the world affords—I don't think they are to blame. It's the system."

Hickam said that statistics have shown 90 per cent of the air attacks were traced to failure of personnel and only 10 per cent to mechanical defects.

HEAVY SEAS HALT RESCUE OF SUBMARINE

New Delay is Disheartening

The new delay in pushing salvage work came as a disheartening blow, through the rescue area.

Experienced officials interviewed by the United Press offered the opinion there could be no resumption before morning. Even then the elements seemed fighting the navy's work. That the new delay was necessarily fatal was scouted. The hope for life aboard the submarine had thinned even without the word of derrick barges churning off to safety But it was said here that if the men were alive now there was no good reason to suppose they would not be alive tomorrow or several days hence

STUDENT OFFICERS COMMANDED SUB

Washington, Sept. 28—The reported statement that two student officers were in charge of the S-51 when the submarine was rammed and sunk by the steamer City of Rome had nothing to do with the culpability of the crash, it was officially said at the navy department today.

The main fact was that the submarine had the right of way as demonstrated by the fact it was struck on the port side, it was said.

The four student officers on board the craft were skilled navigators on the surface and were students only in the submarine school at New London, it was said.

WALDORF RESTORES "PEACOCK ALLEY"

New York, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Peacock Alley lives again.

The historic corridor of the Waldorf-Astoria, famed in fiction and real life romances of "little old New York," which recently vanished in the inexorable march of progress and prohibition, has been re-born.

The Waldrof management, forced to put in shops along its 34th Street front because it is axiomatic that no hotel in New York can meet expenses now-a-days without this expedient, has reconstructed the famous "alley" —rendezvous of stage, society and lookers on.

As soon as the laths and plaster which accompanied the transition of the ground floor of the ancient hostlery were swept aside, New Yorkers found that Peacock Alley had been restored.

If something of its pristine glory was lost, the "alley" has blossomed nevertheless in new and equally comfortable plush sofas and chairs, whence one can observe the bearers and wearers of all that is newest in the world of fashion.

Tower For Foresters

Hibbing — Construction of an observation tower similar to the structure at Marble, for the use of forest observers is planned by the state forestry department. The tower will afford a view of 40 miles of territory.

Good Looks as Well as Good Service

The improved Ford Runabout, with its all-steel stream-line body, is an unusually good-looking car.

It hangs low to the ground, and the body has been lengthened and re-designed for greater comfort and convenience. The gas tank under the cowl is filled from the outside, and the weatherproof storm curtains open with both doors.

Under the sweeping rear deck is an unusually large compartment designed for convenience in carrying luggage.

Standard equipment includes four cord tires, nickeled head-lamp rims and windshield wiper.

The price remains the same $260, and you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

All Starck Pianos are guaranteed for 25 years. P. A. Starck Piano Co. was established in 1891 and has a capital and surplus of over $6,000,000.00.

Gentlemen:—Behold two years have passed since I purchased a Grand Piano from you at your store and I can say to you that this instrument has given me the greatest satisfaction; the more I play it, the more pleased I am with it, for it is a piano of such delicate mechanism, that one can absolutely produce on it all of the most subtle nuances. I've often been visited by master pianists and all have found that I'm in possession of a perfect instrument having a tone very rich and very pure.

I extend to you boundless thanks for assisting me to procure this instrument, and beg you to accept my sincerest greetings.

P. A. STARCK PIANO CO.,

Gentlemen:—We wish you to know how thoroughly pleased we are with the twenty Starck Upright Pianos and five Starck Grand Pianos now in use in our School. The STARCK PIANOS were selected for our equipment exclusiveley because of their beautiful tone and responsive action. All of the teachers and pupils have, by their satisfaction in using the instruments, justified us in our belief that they are the ideal piano for the proper interpretation of piano music and accompaniment for the voice.

We are glad to be able to write you that we are so well pleased with the instrument.

Yours very truly,
Minneapolis School of Music,
WILLIAM H. PONTIUS.

DAY OF AIR FLIVVER IS DAWNING

THE day of the air flivver is dawning. It's to be one with a speed of five miles a minute, same speed made by that navy aviator, Lieut. Williams, who said he expects to fly 500 miles an hour some day.

Lorena A. Hickock, writing in the Minneapolis Tribune, has a vision of thirty or forty million sky-flivvering Americans in Atlantic City for the week-end.

Traffic police will certainly be fly cops. Filling stations will probably have a tank base, hose tower leading to a balloon where a flivver may hang on and refuel. Dropping a monkey wrench from the clouds will be made a penitentiary offense. Towers like the traffic pillars in New York city will mark the air lanes by day and flares by night. Your friend with a forty acre lot, a good landing place, can in all truth invite you to fly over and drop down or in. Henry Ford after congesting all earth's highways, will proceed to fill up the circumambient blue.

Says Miss Hickock: A young man in Minneapolis 25 or 30 years from now should be able to eat a leisurely dinner, dress all up, hop into his flying lizzie and be in Chicago by 8:30, all set to take his girl out to a dance. He could start back from Chicago at 1 a. m. and be home by 2:30.

There was a time, not so many years ago, when a trip to Anoka was an adventure. If you drove, it took all day. You could go by train. But nobody ever took a railroad trip to Anoka to buy an ice cream soda. But nowadays plenty of motorist, driving out in the evening to cool off, take a little ride from Minneapolis to Anoka, have an ice cream soda, turn around and ride home again. They think nothing of it.

Ten years ago, it used to take all day to get to Mille Lacs lake. You used to go up by train, changing cars in the middle of the day, arriving at the station nearest the lake sometime in the afternoon.

This summer thousands of Minneapolitans drove up to Mille Lacs for the weekend. They dashed up Saturday night, fished all day Sunday, and came back Sunday night.

It now takes between 36 and 40 hours to go from Minneapolis to New York City. An over-night trip to Chicago, 24 hours from Chicago to New York. Twenty five or 30 years from now, when everybody rides in planes going five miles a minute—New York will be as near to Minneapolis as Lake Mille Lacs is now.

IN SCHOOL AGAIN

WHAT is an education? The parent, looking back on his own school days and glancing at the array of new text books at the opening of the school this year, is inclined to wonder. How much he learned has been of no practical use to him. How much, on the other hand, gathered out of school during those impressionable years has been of inestimable value.

But certain things do not depart. The ability to study, once acquired, is not quickly lost. Specific knowledge goes if it is not used more or less constantly, but the power to dig into a subject, to gather its essentials and apply them practically, need never go if the student will keep his brain processes in good working order by practice.

Part of what every child learns is this ability to study, to make his memory work for him, to put his brain into harness. Another part is a broad survey of the world, of some of its sciences, a little of its historical and literary traditions.

Education is worthless if it is viewed simply as a means to personal advancement. It should not rest at equipping the individual for a mere competitive existence. There is the solidarity of humanity, the continuous intellectual life inherited from the ages, all something that should early arouse the student's mind. More than that, it should persuade him to take a part in it, to add his quota to the heaped up treasures.

The American public school is a near example of human solidarity, for it recognizes no classes. It has no divisions based on economic lines. Scholarship, not social prestige is the goal sought. The humblest and the highest may meet here and be friends.

Education might be more direct and more efficient if each scholar knew what station in life he would occupy. But part of the great adventure is that no one knows this. There is, however, one destiny for every boy and girl. He is going to be a citizen in a free land. He is going to have to learn to live and work and play with his fellows. He is going to be a part in a great social mechanism destined to advance humanity. The best thing he learns at school is how to get along with his fellows and how to co-operate with them. He has rights and he has duties.

WALTER HAGEN owns a golf course at St. Petersburg, Florida. In playing at the professional tournament in Chicago he gave his address as Pasadena, Florida. We thought that should be corrected, but have ascertained that there is a Pasadena, Florida, a suburb of St. Petersburg, Florida. It seems there is a regular vogue taking California names of cities and adopting them in Florida. Witness also Hollywood, Florida.

THE government is getting generous. Any person who can catch a buffalo bull from the government's herd in Yellowstone National Park may have him—if he pays the costs. This includes express charges and $80 for crating and hauling the beast to the park gateway, Gardiner, Montana, being the nearest shipping point.

EXPLORER ANDREWS reports finding dinosaur eggs in Mongolia a million years old. Another scientist, no doubt an envious one, says Alexander's egg crop of antediluvian days is mere turtle eggs. We say, hatch 'em, and see what kind of a lost world is brought to view.

GEORGE ADE, writing in Cosmopolitan, remembers a time when it was possible for a young gentleman to put on a large evening for the munificent sum of 45 cents. However, it was exceedingly hard in those days to corral the 45 cents.

CHICAGO'S WEEK END CRIMINAL CARNIVAL LIST

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(UP)—One killed and three wounded was the gun fire toll in Chicago's week end criminal carnival.

Aniello Taddeo, lately arisen to the estate of a bootleg king, stood outside his cafe watching patrons enter. An automobile crawled by, a voice spoke from its interior and Taddeo wheeled as shotgun and revolver shots crashed. He died instantly.

Jacob Karabin, 50, resisted an attempt by two negroes to rob him of $2 and was shot twice in the abdomen. He is in a serious condition and may die.

Louis Sack was seriously wounded by a detective squad which pursued him and a companion. Sack was sighted riding along Chicago's gold coast in an automobile which had been stolen a few minutes before. His pal was captured.

Three were killed in automobile accidents.

ENGLISH DRINKING STILL INCREASES; BEER IS FAVORITE

London, Sept. 23.—(UP)—Drinking is on the increase in England.

Controverting the optimistic assertions of the Prohibitionists that England's days as an oasis for the thirsty are waning comes the official report of the licensing bureau stating that there were 2.6 percent more convictions for drunkenness in England and Wales during 1924 than during 1923.

The report contains other items calculated to stir the envy of the thirsty in arid America. For instance:

Saturday Wettest

Saturday is the wettest day of the week, and contributes 33 percent of the week's total of arrests for drunkenness.

Friday is the second best day, with 16 percent.

Monday is third, with 13 percent.

Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, contribute between 9 and 10 percent each.

There is one saloon to every 535 people.

The number of saloons decreased by 576 during the year; but the number of licensed clubs increased by 318.

Beer is far and away the favorite drink with a consumption of 16.41 gallons during the year for every man, woman and child in the Kingdom.

Whiskey however averaged only a little over a quart a year a head. Experts here draw the conclusion that because of un-employment and low wages the banner sales went to beer as offering more for the money, than whiskey.

Arrests during the year total 79,982 an increase of 1,988 over the previous year.

SUB-TROPICAL VALLEY REPORTED IN ARCTIC

Prince Rupert, B. C., Sept. 23.—(UP)—More tales of a sub-tropical valley near the arctic circle in the upper regions of British Columbia were told here by Colonel J. Scott Williams, of Montreal, who has completed a three months airplane expedition in the district.

The valley lies north of Liard and the northernmost white settlements. There grass and verdure are found in amazing luxuriance. Flowers are enormous and much of the vegetation resembles that of tropical regions.

This strange valley gets its individuality from hot springs. Although the surrounding mountains are covered with snow and ice, the springs keep the valley warm.

As wonderful as the valley seemed to Scott and his mechanic, the airplane was equally as wonderful to the natives in various northern settlements.

They regarded with awe two of their number who were given rides in the airplane.

Public Approval Cannot Be Bought—

—it cannot be coaxed—it must be earned!

When an individual or a group of individuals seeks public approval, the task becomes difficult.

When a private enterprise so large as to be classed as an important unit of big business earns the seal of public approbation, it is an achievement.

That this goal has been reached by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is indicated by the fact that today there are 49,277 stockholders, as against 4623 in 1919.

This splendid increase is prima facie evidence that the public approves the way in which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates. When the public invests its money in a business it is an expression, in a material way, of confidence in the management of the Company.

It is recognition that the policies of the Company are sound and constructive—all of which means that the Directors of this Company have succeeded in getting across to the public, the sincerity of purpose animating its every action.

This has been accomplished in a quiet, orderly fashion, by the simple process of letting every act stand on its own merit and abide the test of time.

Every practice that has been incorporated by this Company is animated by a spirit of service, inspired by the will to serve, and executed with fixed determination that the service rendered to thirty million people of ten Middle Western states should be as complete and comprehensive as human ingenuity, enthusiastic energy and specialized brains can make it.

It is this indomitable will to serve plus an ability to follow through that has earned for this Company the approbation of the general public and an unique place among America's foremost institutions of essential service.

DEMPSEY-WILLS BATTLE STRIKES A SNAG

INDIANA ANTI-PRIZEFIGHT LAW A SOLID BARRIER

WILL BAR DEMPSEY-WILLS PROPOSED FOURTH OF JULY FIGHT

WAS SET FOR MICHIGAN CITY AS THE FISTIC EVENT OF 1926

Indianapolis, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The proposed Dempsey-Wills fight at Michigan City, Ind., July 4, 1926, will be prohibited under Indiana's anti-prizefight law, it was announced today by Edward White, assistant attorney general.

White cited the law in two parts:

"1. To constitute a prize fight there must be an expectation of reward to be gained by the contest or competition, either to be won from the contestant or to be otherwise awarded and there must be intent to inflict some degree of bodily harm on the contestant.

"2. The term prize fight has no technical legal meaning, but is used in common signification to indicate a fight in a public place for a prize reward.

"Such a fight as proposed would break every prohibition of this law," White said. "It would be next to impossible to permit such a fight."

When it was pointed out to White that fights along the same lines are held nearly every day in Indiana he said that it was up to the city council and the mayor to determine the difference between a prize fight and a boxing match but said the governor's ruling would prevail in all cases.

"The governor's orders will be based upon the opinion of the attorney general"

BRAINERD TEAM TASTES DEFEAT

WERE BEATEN 3 TO 2 BY ISLE IN SATURDAY GAME

The Brainerd N. P. baseball team met defeat in their last game of the year, played at Isle Saturday, by a score of 3-2.

The shopmen made their two runs in the last inning, Swede Erickson starting by getting a life on an error. Uddenberg walking, and Peterson and Thorkildson hitting. Witn the tying and winning runs on third and second, Hanson and Schwindeman struck out.

The Isle aggregation scored their three runs on a bunting game. Two men got on base, when the team started bunting, and upset Jones with four well-placed bunts in a row before he could stop them.

There was no game here yesterday on acount of wet grounds.

STANFORD LOSES TO OLYMPIC CLUB OF SAN FRANCISCO

IS ONLY UPSET SHOWN BY OPENING OF FOOTBALL SEASON

MOST OF BIG TEAMS HAD OPPONENTS SELECTED FOR MERE WORKOUTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

New York, Sept. 28.—One tremendous surprise, the defeat of Stanford by the Olympic club of San Francisco, was the only upset the opening of the football season showed.

There were very few chances of upsets, however, as practically all of the big teams had opponents that were scheduled only to give them a workout. The size of the scores which mean little in early season games were the chief features.

The Notre Dame-Baylor game was, from a national standpoint, the most interesting game of the day. There was a general curiosity to see what Knute Rockne had done to replace the 11 stars that were recognized last year as the national champions.

In winning by a score of 41 to 0 it looked as if Rockne had not only developed another great team but three teams. The size of the score was impressive because Baylor is anything but a setup.

Among the eastern teams Syracuse, Dartmouth, Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania looked to be very promising. Penn state was a disappointment in beating Lebanon Valley only 14 to 0.

The big three and the Western conference teams do not get started until next Saturday as they are bound by a limited schedule agreement.

One of the important games of the season will be played Saturday at Urbana between Illinois and Nebraska. It will have no bearing on the Western conference or Missouri valley conference standing, but it will go a long way to proving what Red Grange is up to this season.

Yale, Harvard, and Princeton will open with warm up games, Yale against Middlebury, Harvard against Rensselaer and Princeton against Amherst.

WHITE BEAR GRABS 13 FRAME GAME IN FINALS

DEFEATS CASS LAKE INDIANS 2 TO 1 ON SUNDAY

ARMOURS OF ST PAUL BATTLE 2 TO 2 TIE WITH PINE LAKE

St. Paul, Sept. 28—(UP)—But one finalist has been determined in the state amateur baseball tournament at Lexington park.

Five hours of baseball Sunday saw White Bears grab a 13 inning, 2-1 game from the Cass Lake Indians and the Armours, St. Paul, defending champions, battle to a 10 inning 2-2 tie with Pine Lake.

Three singles, after two were out in the 13th inning brought the necessary run for victory to the White Bear club. Fairbanks, Cass Lake, hurler, was effective in the pinches. He was rarely in danger, except in the second and ninth innings when White Bear pushed across their two runs, to drag the game to extra innings.

The Armours and Pine Lake will clash this afternoon in the tie playoff for the right to meet White Bear for the title. The final game will be played Tuesday at Lexington park.

SIX INCH SNOW BLANKET TODAY AT HELENA, MONT.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 28.—(UP)—A six inch blanket of snow covered the ground here today with the downfall continuing at noon. It started yesterday morning and has been falling intermittently since. The minimum temperature during the storm was 32 degrees.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Curly Ogden, recalled to Washington from Chattanooga, let the Browns down with three hits and won his game, 8 to 0.

Jack Fournier got three singles, drove in two runs and stole a base, helping the Robins beat the Giants, 5 to 4.

Earl Whitehill held the Yankees safe and the Tigers won the first game, 10 to 5. The second game was ended by darkness with a 1-1 tie.

After being blanked for three innings the Pirates got to Luque for four runs and beat the Reds 4 to 3 in a six inning game that was stopped by rain.

Rogers Hornsby hit two homers, one giving the Cardinals a 6 to 5 victory in the first game but the Braves grabbed the second 7 to 6.

With all eight teams engaged in double headers the American association came to a close yesterday.

The Colonels, who cinched the championship some weeks ago, dropped the final two games to the Hens, 7 to 6 and 6 to 2, the second game being called on account of rain in the sixth inning. The double victory enabled the Hens to hold sixth place.

Breaking even in a double header with the Senators the Indians came through the season in second place. The Indians copped the first game 8 to 4 and the Senators won the second 2 to 1. The Senators finished in the cellar.

The Saints, after winning the first game of a double header from the Brewers 16 to 9 staged a burlesque in the second and lost 19 to 9. Haas and Boone were on the mound in the second game and allowed 27 hits. While the Saints finished in third place the Brewers closed the season in seventh place.

Minneapolis ended the year with a double victory over the Blues, winning 7 to 2 and 9 to 6. The Millers closed in fourth place while the Blues finished in fifth.

HARRIS WASHINGTON'S REAL MANAGER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 28.—After Bucky Harris had surprised the baseball world last year by winning a pennant and a world's series in his first year as a manager, some observers who were not swayed by sentiment said that the young leader of the Washington Senators won with the aid of luck and the counsel of Clarke Griffith, owner of the club.

In the closing days of the pennant race, when the Senators were whipped into high speed to beat out the New York Yankees, Griffith occupied a box near the Washington dugout and it was thought that he was having an unofficial seat with the board of strategy.

"Harris did have some luck last year. Every champion team has to have some luck. But Bucky Harris ran the team the way he wanted it run and Griffith didn't have a word to say about it," a veteran official, who has been in active contact with the players for years, said recently.

"Harris is one of the smartest and gamest managers I have seen in a career of twenty years," he continued. "I know, because I happened to hear several controversies, that Harris is and has been the manager of the team and on several occasions he did not save words in telling Griffith that he was the boss and that his word was the last word. The players all know that Harris is the field boss of the team and everyone knows it also who is in a place where he can see and hear what happens on the bench.

"It was a little incident in which Harris asserted himself last season that made a great manager of him and a great team of the Senators. It was along in mid-season and Washington was just a second division ball club. The team was enjoying a winning streak of four or five games—which was good for Washington—when Goose Goslin and "Spark Plug" Matthews got into a fight on the bench.

"Goslin was playing his regular position in left field and Matthews was playing center field. Their hitting and fielding had been responsible largely for the winning streak and they got to thinking well of themselves. In this particular game, a fly ball dropped safely between Goslin and Matthews and they almost came to blows when they got to the bench. Harris listened to the talk until it got so loud and rough that he ordered them to sit down.

"'You two let in two runs with that stunt,' Harris said. 'You can't get those runs back by talking. Go out there and knock in two runs and you'll make up for it.'

"They kept on ragging at each other and Harris ordered them to keep quiet. Metthews closed up and sat down, but Goslin looked belligerently at Harris and said:

"'Shut up yourself. You're not big enough to make me shut up.'

"Harris walked over to him like he was ready to let one go and said in an ordinary voice:

"'You pick up your little bat and your little glove and go to the club house. I'll show you that you're not so good we can't get along without you. I want you to be out of the club house with all your stuff when the game is over and I don't want to see you until you are ready to apologize in front of the whole team and until you have dug down in your pockets for a $100 fine.'

"The players were open-mouthed in awe when Goslin sulked to the club house and they were amazed the following day to see Goslin walk into the club house and hear him tell the bunch that he was sorry and that he was going to soldier for Harris.

"Walter Johnson told a friend after the incident had happened that he had had his doubts about Harris before that but his strict way of handling Goslin had convinced him that the youngster was a great manager.

"I feel sure that it was that one act that made the Washington ball club. The players respected Harris from that time on. They knew that he was smart on the field and they learned then that he was in command of the bench.

"Griffith didn't know a thing about the row for weeks and that's one reason why I know that Harris is running the team on his own and I know that he is doing a mighty fine job of it."

* * * * * * * * *

The element of luck did not figure in Washington's success this year. The bad luck of the Philadelphia Athletics in falling into such a sensational losing streak late in the season could not be charged fairly as being a break in luck for Harris because his team had a bad slump at the same time and it was Bucky's skill in handling his pitchers that pulled his club out of it.

ROCKNE HAILED AS WONDER MAN OF NOTRE DAME

HIS CHARGES DEFEATED BAYLOR UNIVERSITY 41 TO 0

ROCKNE MACHINE TO BE SERIOUS CONTENDER IN EVERY GAME

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, was hailed today as a wonder man by virtue of the great showing his football charges made Saturday in defeating the Baylor university bears 41 to 0.

The Rockne machine, 1925 model, may not win a national championship or win by such margins as the 1924 team with the "four horsemen" did, but it will be a serious contender in every game, critics believed after watching the Irish overwhelm the southerners.

The rhythm, the speed and the fight that made the 1924 team famous could easily be detected in this year's outfit.

Rockne lost 25 regulars and first string substitutes last June, but from the 850 men who have tried out for the Notre Dame teams, the Norse mentor has sifted out several squads, which look up to the Notre Dame standard. Eleven elevens took the field and ran through signal drills before the Baylor game and about half the squad got into the game.

Rockne is still trying to cut his men and any guess at the regular backfield is as good as another. The line looks stronger than did the forward wall last year.

In the backfield Rockne has Scharer at quarterback, Flannigan and Joe Prelli at half back position, and Hanousek at full back. Scharer and Enright, another back, are left overs from last year. Dehman, Edwards, O'Boyle, Roach, Hearndon and Riley are others who probably will be heard from before the season is over.

The first big Notre Dame intersectional contest is the game with the Army in New York, October 17. This is the first contest towards which Rockne is pointing.

DEMPSEY-WILLS FIGHT TERMS TO BE SET SOON

SHOW DOWN IN PROJECTED BATTLE DUE TODAY AT SOUTH BEND, INDIANA

SYNDICATE UNDERWRITING THE FIGHT FOR $1,000,000

Chicago, Sept. 28. — (UP)—The show down in the projected fight between Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills is due today at South Bend, Ind.

Dempsey, his secretary, B. H. Benton; Wills, his manager, Paddy Mullins, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, left Chicago by automobile early today expecting to arrive at South Bend in the afternoon.

Fitzsimmons the fight promoter, had arranged for the battlers to meet A. C. Wiseberg, South Bend hotel owner, and other members of the syndicate which is underwriting the fight for $1,000,000 to discuss final terms. Dempsey and Wills are said to have signed preliminary articles to meet at Michigan City, July 4, 1926.

Benton said he was confident both battlers would affix their signatures to the final agreement today or tomorrow.

WONDERFUL FIELD IN WOMEN'S TOURNEY

QUALIFYING ROUND IN NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

By JAMES GOULD
United Press Staff Correspondent

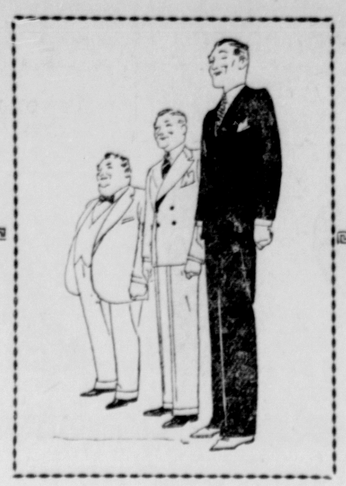

St. Louis Country Club, Clayton, Mo., Sept. 28.—One of the most wonderful colorful fields that has started in a United States Women's Golf tournament teed off today on the qualifying round of the 29th annual national amateur championship.

Past and present titleholders and a host of potential champions were among the 78 women who started trekking off over the picturesque sporty St. Louis Country club course.

A warm sun yesterday following a drenching rain Saturday put the turf and greens in perfect condition and the practice matches during the afternoon were run through with many of the entrants klicking off surprisingly good scores, indicating some very close golf before the tournament is concluded with the finals next Saturday.

Among the famous women golfers who teed off in the qualifying round were Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, who will defend her title; Miss Mary K. Browne, former champion; Miss Glenna Collette, Mrs. Alexia Stirling Fraser, Miss Edith Cummins, Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Ja., and Mrs. F. C. Letts.

Makes Night Driving SAFE

The Controllable Beam on the Better Buick

Night driving strain, the blind insecurity when you dim to keep glare out of the eyes of an approaching driver—both have been eliminated by the Controllable Beam Headlight, a feature of the Better Buick.

Daytime visibility every inch of the way! Bright light all the time! A simple control on the steering wheel lowers the beam when you near another car.

And this is only one of many 1926 improvements which Buick engineering has given to the Better Buick. 75 horsepower and more; Duotone in Duco finish; Triple Sealed Valve-in-Head engine; light-pedal-pressure clutch; approved mechanical 4-wheel brakes; and many other exclusive advancements now make the Better Buick the better car to own and drive.

OPEN EVENINGS

Gentlemen:—Behold two years have passed since I purchased a Grand Piano from you at your store and I can say to you that this instrument has given me the greatest satisfaction; the more I play it, the more pleased I am with it, for it is a piano of such delicate mechanism, that one can absolutely produce on it all of the most subtle nuances. I've often been visited by master pianists and all have found that I'm in possession of a perfect instrument having a tone very rich and very pure.

I extend to you boundless thanks for assisting me to procure this instrument, and beg you to accept my sincerest greetings.

CONDEMN LANDS FOR HIGHWAY 27

Hearings Held Saturday Before Commission Named by Judge McClenahan

3 COMMISSIONERS SERVE

J. Frank Anderson, of Emily; Edward Crust and John H. Krekelberg of Brainerd

Hearings on condemnation proceedings were held Saturday before the commission appointed by Judge W. S. McClenahan, in the condeming of lands between Brainerd and the Morrison county line for public use, as a right-of-way for the new route of Trunk Highway No. 27.

The commission consists of J. Frank Anderson, of Emily, Edward Crust and J. H. Krekelberg, of Brainerd. On Friday the commissioners met, took the oath perscribed, and elected Mr. Krekelberg as chairman. They viewed the lands in question on Friday afternoon, preparatory to hearing the cases.

The cases heard on Saturday were those of L. A. White, Eugene Jones, Gertrude Milam, and the Fredstrom estate. F. E. Ebner appeared as attorney for Eugene Jones and Gertrude Milam, and Ryon, Ryan and Ryan for the Fredstrom estate. L. A. White was not represented by an attorney. Attorney Victor E. Anderson, of St. Paul, represented the state.

No awards were made at Saturday's meeting, all cases being taken under advisement. A second hearing is scheduled for next Saturday, October 3rd. The commission meets in the district court room at the court house.

REV. WALTON TO WADENA

Former Rector of St. Paul's Moves Family and Household Effects to New Charge

Rev. W. M. Walton, former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and now rector of the Episcopal church at Wadena left today for that place, with his family.

Rev. Walton received a call to Wadena on the first of September, and has been making the journey there each week, pending the vacating of the rectory there. For the last two ar three days, Rev. Walton has been moving his household goods. Rev. Long, formerly of International Falls, takes Rev. Walton's place here.

The good wishes of local people, both members of his church and others, attend Rev. Walton and his family to their new place of service. They have the high regard of all who knew them.

Of the three daughters in the family, one is married and lives in Saskatchewan, another is science teacher in the Wahpeton schools, and the other is attending school at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Chaplin First Star In "Charley's Aunt"

It is a strange thing but true that "Charley's Aunt," the play which has been going continuously for thirty-three years on the stage, has never had a star, and the film presenting Syd Chaplin which comes to the Lyceum theatre Monday and Tuesday is the first time the piece has ever been done with a star in the title role.

"Charley's Aunt" has been played in England with 166 different "Charleys" and according to Mrs. Brandon Thomas, wife of the author, who now controls the enormous estate which the play has built up, every one of the Charleys has been good.

Avalanche of Praise For "The Iron Horse." At the New Park.

Exceptional praise of the faithful portrayal of the stirring events in the early sixties which the William Fox photoplay, "The Iron Horse," presents has been received from historians, writers and railroad executives who have seen the picture.

John Ford, who directed the production, took his company to the Nevada desert, in lower California, and in the Sierra Range to obtain an accurate setting for "The Iron Horse."

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

This is a story not of "Sharps and Flats," but of more flats than sharps. Russell Hagberg and Vernon Dieckhaus made the last lap of a ten day motor trip late Saturday, returning to their homes here about 6 o'clock They qualified as expert tire repairers on the return journey, taking care of thirty-five flats, the result of hot driving along the pavements. Their last night found them at Anoka, waking up in the morning with three flats, besides a flat spare. In all they covered about two thousand miles in the ten days.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SESSION

Annual Meeting Held in Church Parlors And Reports Heard

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Rev. N. P. Olmsted Presided as Chairman of Meeting

The First Congregational church held its annual meeting on last Thursday evening in the church parlors, at which the yearly reports were heard from the various branches of the church and officers elected to fill the terms that expired this year. Rev. N. P. Olmsted presided as chairman of the meeting.

Following is the list of officers elected:

Deaconess for three years—Mrs. W. E. Erickson, Mrs. E. H. Jones.

Deacon for three years—J. A. Wilson, H. A. Wilson.

Trustees for three years—G. D. LaBar, D. E. Whitney, E. J. Cook, Dr. K. H. Hoorn.

Clerk—Dr. G. H. Ribbel.

Auditor—R. D. Stitzel.

Sunday School Superintendent—C. Bruhn.

Head Usher—G. H. Stone.

Music committee—Mrs. W. A. Erickson, Mrs. G. D. LaBar, Mrs. C. A. Allbright, Mrs. C. W. Hoffman, Mrs. D. E. Whitney.

Parish visitors and social committee—Mrs. A. C. Weber, Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Mrs. W. C. Mannis Mrs. R. M. Sheets, Mrs. J. P. Anderson, Mrs. W. C. Cobb and Mrs. George E. Thomas.

The reports of the various church activities showed that each one of the branches of the denomination had been working hard during the past year. The ladies aid society and the Priscilla Circle rendered exceptionally fine reports, and were highly praised for their accomplishments during the year. All divisions of the churches activities plan an even greater program of service for the coming year than was completed during the past twelve months.

The men of the church are planning a men's forum, a club to meet once each month during the winter at a luncheon, followed by a short program with a principal speaker on some subject of general interest, and an open forum by the members on this subject.

The idea has appealed to all who have been approached on it, and the men will gather on Wednesday evening, September 30th, at the ladies aid supper in the church basement, where they will have a special table and afterward draw up definite plans for organizing the forum. All men interested in such a club, whether members of the church or not, are invited and urged to be present at Wednesday evening's supper, which will be served at 6 o'clock.

BRAINERD GOODS FINDING MARKETS

Orders From as Far West as Portland, Ore., Received by Wm. Schlange

CIGARS MEET WITH FAVOR

Tourist at Local Camp Impressed With Flavor and Sends in Order

Brainerd-made products are finding a market in an ever enlarging territory, but when orders come from as far west as Portland, Ore., it means that locally manufactured goods must be making quite a reputation.

William Schlange, cigar manufacturer located on South Seventh street, recently received an order for a shipment of the "Economy Brand" cigars from Portland, with a letter acompanying the order in which the writer states that these cigars have found special favor with him.

V. M. Smith is the man ordering the cigars. He toured through Minnesota the past season, stopping at the Brainerd tourist camp, and while here had an opportunity to sample Mr. Schlange's Economy cigar. He liked the brand so well that he took a goodly supply with him, and now places a second order for his favorite smoke.

Mr. Schlange, who has been a resident of Brainerd and Crow Wing county for many years, is an ardent booster for Brainerd-made products, and proudly asserts that he never buys out-of-town merchandise. He believes that all Brainerd citizens should follow this practice, and adds that if locally made goods are appreciated as far west as the Pacific coast, they should find favor in the city in which they are manufactured.

Jacob Tabert Funeral

Funeral services for the late Jacob Tabert, of Ironton, a former Brainerd resident, will be held on Tuesday afternoon, September 29th, at 2:30 o'clock from the Presbyterian church of Ironton. An obituary notice will be published later.

Card of Thanks

Ws wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our loving husband and father, Frank McKenna, of Eau Claire, Wisconsin.

MRS. FRANK McKENNA, and family. 1tp

McGarry-Kretzschmar

Patrick Ambrose McGarry and Miss Elizabeth Emma Kretzschmar were united in marriage on Saturday evening at the parsonage of St. Francis Catholic church, Rev. Father James Hogan officiating.

Both young people are well known in Brainerd. The groom is a son of Mrs. M. A. McGarry, 911 Maple street, and is employed as a dispatcher in the local Minnesota & International railway offices.

The bride is a sister of Theodore Kretzschmar, and is interested in the Electrik bakery. The newlyweds will make their home in the city.

Laurila-Mileusnich

Emil Laurila, of Biwabik, and Miss Fanny Lydia Mileusnich, of Trommald were married today at the bride's home.

They expect to make their home at Trommald, where the groom has secured a position in the mines.

IF YOU COULD SEE THE HEAT IN COAL

You would realize at once that a load of STANDARD COAL contains a full measure of heat and a load of ordinary unprepared coal only a short measure of heat.

The difference in heat value is due to the low ash content of STANDARD COAL and to the careful, systematic way in which STANDARD COAL is mined and cleaned, so that no visible, noncombustible impurities and wastes are shipped.

Freight charges are the same on STANDARD COAL as on the ordinary, unprepared, dirty coal. Delivered heat value alone counts. For a full measure of heat, use STANDARD COAL.

DEMPSEY-WILLS BATTLE STRIKES A SNAG

INDIANA ANTI-PRIZEFIGHT LAW A SOLID BARRIER

WILL BAR DEMPSEY-WILLS PROPOSED FOURTH OF JULY FIGHT

WAS SET FOR MICHIGAN CITY AS THE FISTIC EVENT OF 1926

Indianapolis, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The proposed Dempsey-Wills fight at Michigan City, Ind., July 4, 1926, will be prohibited under Indiana's anti-prizefight law, it was announced today by Edward White, assistant attorney general.

White cited the law in two parts:

"1. To constitute a prize fight there must be an expectation of reward to be gained by the contest or competition, either to be won from the contestant or to be otherwise awarded and there must be intent to inflict some degree of bodily harm on the contestant.

"2. The term prize fight has no technical legal meaning, but is used in common signification to indicate a fight in a public place for a prize reward.

"Such a fight as proposed would break every prohibition of this law," White said. "It would be next to impossible to permit such a fight."

When it was pointed out to White that fights along the same lines are held nearly every day in Indiana he said that it was up to the city council and the mayor to determine the difference between a prize fight and a boxing match but said the governor's ruling would prevail in all cases.

"The governor's orders will be based upon the opinion of the attorney general"

BRAINERD TEAM TASTES DEFEAT

WERE BEATEN 3 TO 2 BY ISLE IN SATURDAY GAME

The Brainerd N. P. baseball team met defeat in their last game of the year, played at Isle Saturday, by a score of 3-2.

The shopmen made their two runs in the last inning, Swede Erickson starting by getting a life on an error. Uddenberg walking, and Peterson and Thorkildson hitting. Witn the tying and winning runs on third and second, Hanson and Schwindeman struck out.

The Isle aggregation scored their three runs on a bunting game. Two men got on base, when the team started bunting, and upset Jones with four well-placed bunts in a row before he could stop them.

There was no game here yesterday on acount of wet grounds.

STANFORD LOSES TO OLYMPIC CLUB OF SAN FRANCISCO

IS ONLY UPSET SHOWN BY OPENING OF FOOTBALL SEASON

MOST OF BIG TEAMS HAD OPPONENTS SELECTED FOR MERE WORKOUTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

New York, Sept. 28.—One tremendous surprise, the defeat of Stanford by the Olympic club of San Francisco, was the only upset the opening of the football season showed.

There were very few chances of upsets, however, as practically all of the big teams had opponents that were scheduled only to give them a workout. The size of the scores which mean little in early season games were the chief features.

The Notre Dame-Baylor game was, from a national standpoint, the most interesting game of the day. There was a general curiosity to see what Knute Rockne had done to replace the 11 stars that were recognized last year as the national champions.

In winning by a score of 41 to 0 it looked as if Rockne had not only developed another great team but three teams. The size of the score was impressive because Baylor is anything but a setup.

Among the eastern teams Syracuse, Dartmouth, Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania looked to be very promising. Penn state was a disappointment in beating Lebanon Valley only 14 to 0.

The big three and the Western conference teams do not get started until next Saturday as they are bound by a limited schedule agreement.

One of the important games of the season will be played Saturday at Urbana between Illinois and Nebraska. It will have no bearing on the Western conference or Missouri valley conference standing, but it will go a long way to proving what Red Grange is up to this season.

Yale, Harvard, and Princeton will open with warm up games, Yale against Middlebury, Harvard against Rensselaer and Princeton against Amherst.

WHITE BEAR GRABS 13 FRAME GAME IN FINALS

DEFEATS CASS LAKE INDIANS 2 TO 1 ON SUNDAY

ARMOURS OF ST PAUL BATTLE 2 TO 2 TIE WITH PINE LAKE

St. Paul, Sept. 28—(UP)—But one finalist has been determined in the state amateur baseball tournament at Lexington park.

Five hours of baseball Sunday saw White Bears grab a 13 inning, 2-1 game from the Cass Lake Indians and the Armours, St. Paul, defending champions, battle to a 10 inning 2-2 tie with Pine Lake.

Three singles, after two were out in the 13th inning brought the necessary run for victory to the White Bear club. Fairbanks, Cass Lake, hurler, was effective in the pinches. He was rarely in danger, except in the second and ninth innings when White Bear pushed across their two runs, to drag the game to extra innings.

The Armours and Pine Lake will clash this afternoon in the tie playoff for the right to meet White Bear for the title. The final game will be played Tuesday at Lexington park.

SIX INCH SNOW BLANKET TODAY AT HELENA, MONT.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 28.—(UP)—A six inch blanket of snow covered the ground here today with the downfall continuing at noon. It started yesterday morning and has been falling intermittently since. The minimum temperature during the storm was 32 degrees.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Curly Ogden, recalled to Washington from Chattanooga, let the Browns down with three hits and won his game, 8 to 0.

Jack Fournier got three singles, drove in two runs and stole a base, helping the Robins beat the Giants, 5 to 4.

Earl Whitehill held the Yankees safe and the Tigers won the first game, 10 to 5. The second game was ended by darkness with a 1-1 tie.

After being blanked for three innings the Pirates got to Luque for four runs and beat the Reds 4 to 3 in a six inning game that was stopped by rain.

Rogers Hornsby hit two homers, one giving the Cardinals a 6 to 5 victory in the first game but the Braves grabbed the second 7 to 6.

With all eight teams engaged in double headers the American association came to a close yesterday.

The Colonels, who cinched the championship some weeks ago, dropped the final two games to the Hens, 7 to 6 and 6 to 2, the second game being called on account of rain in the sixth inning. The double victory enabled the Hens to hold sixth place.

Breaking even in a double header with the Senators the Indians came through the season in second place. The Indians copped the first game 8 to 4 and the Senators won the second 2 to 1. The Senators finished in the cellar.

The Saints, after winning the first game of a double header from the Brewers 16 to 9 staged a burlesque in the second and lost 19 to 9. Haas and Boone were on the mound in the second game and allowed 27 hits. While the Saints finished in third place the Brewers closed the season in seventh place.

Minneapolis ended the year with a double victory over the Blues, winning 7 to 2 and 9 to 6. The Millers closed in fourth place while the Blues finished in fifth.

HARRIS WASHINGTON'S REAL MANAGER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 28.—After Bucky Harris had surprised the baseball world last year by winning a pennant and a world's series in his first year as a manager, some observers who were not swayed by sentiment said that the young leader of the Washington Senators won with the aid of luck and the counsel of Clarke Griffith, owner of the club.

In the closing days of the pennant race, when the Senators were whipped into high speed to beat out the New York Yankees, Griffith occupied a box near the Washington dugout and it was thought that he was having an unofficial seat with the board of strategy.

"Harris did have some luck last year. Every champion team has to have some luck. But Bucky Harris ran the team the way he wanted it run and Griffith didn't have a word to say about it," a veteran official, who has been in active contact with the players for years, said recently.

"Harris is one of the smartest and gamest managers I have seen in a career of twenty years," he continued. "I know, because I happened to hear several controversies, that Harris is and has been the manager of the team and on several occasions he did not save words in telling Griffith that he was the boss and that his word was the last word. The players all know that Harris is the field boss of the team and everyone knows it also who is in a place where he can see and hear what happens on the bench.

"It was a little incident in which Harris asserted himself last season that made a great manager of him and a great team of the Senators. It was along in mid-season and Washington was just a second division ball club. The team was enjoying a winning streak of four or five games—which was good for Washington—when Goose Goslin and "Spark Plug" Matthews got into a fight on the bench.

"Goslin was playing his regular position in left field and Matthews was playing center field. Their hitting and fielding had been responsible largely for the winning streak and they got to thinking well of themselves. In this particular game, a fly ball dropped safely between Goslin and Matthews and they almost came to blows when they got to the bench. Harris listened to the talk until it got so loud and rough that he ordered them to sit down.

"'You two let in two runs with that stunt,' Harris said. 'You can't get those runs back by talking. Go out there and knock in two runs and you'll make up for it.'

"They kept on ragging at each other and Harris ordered them to keep quiet. Metthews closed up and sat down, but Goslin looked belligerently at Harris and said:

"'Shut up yourself. You're not big enough to make me shut up.'

"Harris walked over to him like he was ready to let one go and said in an ordinary voice:

"'You pick up your little bat and your little glove and go to the club house. I'll show you that you're not so good we can't get along without you. I want you to be out of the club house with all your stuff when the game is over and I don't want to see you until you are ready to apologize in front of the whole team and until you have dug down in your pockets for a $100 fine.'

"The players were open-mouthed in awe when Goslin sulked to the club house and they were amazed the following day to see Goslin walk into the club house and hear him tell the bunch that he was sorry and that he was going to soldier for Harris.

"Walter Johnson told a friend after the incident had happened that he had had his doubts about Harris before that but his strict way of handling Goslin had convinced him that the youngster was a great manager.

"I feel sure that it was that one act that made the Washington ball club. The players respected Harris from that time on. They knew that he was smart on the field and they learned then that he was in command of the bench.

"Griffith didn't know a thing about the row for weeks and that's one reason why I know that Harris is running the team on his own and I know that he is doing a mighty fine job of it."

* * * * * * * *

The element of luck did not figure in Washington's success this year. The bad luck of the Philadelphia Athletics in falling into such a sensational losing streak late in the season could not be charged fairly as being a break in luck for Harris because his team had a bad slump at the same time and it was Bucky's skill in handling his pitchers that pulled his club out of it.

ROCKNE HAILED AS WONDER MAN OF NOTRE DAME

HIS CHARGES DEFEATED BAYLOR UNIVERSITY 41 TO 0

ROCKNE MACHINE TO BE SERIOUS CONTENDER IN EVERY GAME

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, was hailed today as a wonder man by virtue of the great showing his football charges made Saturday in defeating the Baylor university bears 41 to 0.

The Rockne machine, 1925 model, may not win a national championship or win by such margins as the 1924 team with the "four horsemen" did, but it will be a serious contender in every game, critics believed after watching the Irish overwhelm the southerners.

The rhythm, the speed and the fight that made the 1924 team famous could easily be detected in this year's outfit.

Rockne lost 25 regulars and first string substitutes last June, but from the 850 men who have tried out for the Notre Dame teams, the Norse mentor has sifted out several squads, which look up to the Notre Dame standard. Eleven elevens took the field and ran through signal drills before the Baylor game and about half the squad got into the game.

Rockne is still trying to cut his men and any guess at the regular backfield is as good as another. The line looks stronger than did the forward wall last year.

In the backfield Rockne has Scharer at quarterback, Flannigan and Joe Prelli at half back position, and Hanousek at full back. Scharer and Enright, another back, are left overs from last year. Dehman, Edwards, O'Boyle, Roach, Hearndon and Riley are others who probably will be heard from before the season is over.

The first big Notre Dame intersectional contest is the game with the Army in New York, October 17. This is the first contest towards which Rockne is pointing.

DEMPSEY-WILLS FIGHT TERMS TO BE SET SOON

SHOW DOWN IN PROJECTED BATTLE DUE TODAY AT SOUTH BEND, INDIANA

SYNDICATE UNDERWRITING THE FIGHT FOR $1,000,000

Chicago, Sept. 28. — (UP)—The show down in the projected fight between Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills is due today at South Bend, Ind.

Dempsey, his secretary, B. H. Benton; Wills, his manager, Paddy Mullins, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, left Chicago by automobile early today expecting to arrive at South Bend in the afternoon.

Fitzsimmons the fight promoter, had arranged for the battlers to meet A. C. Wiseberg, South Bend hotel owner, and other members of the syndicate which is underwriting the fight for $1,000,000 to discuss final terms. Dempsey and Wills are said to have signed preliminary articles to meet at Michigan City, July 4, 1926.

Benton said he was confident both battlers would affix their signatures to the final agreement today or tomorrow.

WONDERFUL FIELD IN WOMEN'S TOURNEY

QUALIFYING ROUND IN NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

By JAMES GOULD
United Press Staff Correspondent

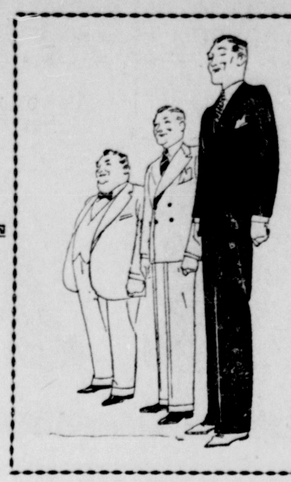

St. Louis Country Club, Clayton, Mo., Sept. 28.—One of the most wonderful colorful fields that has started in a United States Women's Golf tournament teed off today on the qualifying round of the 29th annual national amateur championship.

Past and present titleholders and a host of potential champions were among the 78 women who started trekking off over the picturesque sporty St. Louis Country club course.

A warm sun yesterday following a drenching rain Saturday put the turf and greens in perfect condition and the practice matches during the afternoon were run through with many of the entrants klicking off surprisingly good scores, indicating some very close golf before the tournament is concluded with the finals next Saturday.

Among the famous women golfers who teed off in the qualifying round were Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, who will defend her title; Miss Mary K. Browne, former champion; Miss Glenna Collette, Mrs. Alexia Stirling Fraser, Miss Edith Cummins, Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Ja., and Mrs. F. C. Letts.

Makes Night Driving SAFE

The Controllable Beam on the Better Buick

Night driving strain, the blind insecurity when you dim to keep glare out of the eyes of an approaching driver—both have been eliminated by the Controllable Beam Headlight, a feature of the Better Buick.

Daytime visibility every inch of the way! Bright light all the time! A simple control on the steering wheel lowers the beam when you near another car.

And this is only one of many 1926 improvements which Buick engineering has given to the Better Buick. 75 horsepower and more; Duotone in Duco finish; Triple Sealed Valve-in-Head engine; light-pedal-pressure clutch; approved mechanical 4-wheel brakes; and many other exclusive advancements now make the Better Buick the better car to own and drive.

BEARISH NEWS FROM EUROPE DEPRESSES WHEAT

RECORD BREAKING MOVEMENT OF SPRING WHEAT IS ALSO FACTOR

SEPTEMBER WHEAT WAS REPORTED AS OFF 4 CENTS AT $1.35

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Bearish news from Europe and a record breaking movement of spring wheat in Canada caused further wheat depression on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

September wheat was off 4 cents at $1.35, a new low for the present season. December was off 4⅝ cents at $1.36⅛ and May off 4¼ cents at $1.39.

These drops represent a total decrease of 18 cents in the last week.

CALL MONEY ADVANCES

New York, Sept. 28.—Stocks were unsettled at the start of the new week by an advance in call money to 5½ from the renewal rate of 4½. In view of the $1,900,000 surplus showed by Saturday's clearing house statement, $1,500,000 in the previous week, this tightening was somewhat unexpected. But requirements incident to the end of the month necessitated the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans accounting for the stiffening in demand rates.

This development was used by professional operators as a basis for an energetic drive on prices. United States Steel was subjected to concentrated selling which finally spread to the whole market and resulted in substantial recessions among the industrial leaders.

Rails were also freely offered and the market as a whole displayed a heavy tone most of the day.

The market closed higher.

CLAIMS BUS LINES IN RAIL AREA NOT NEEDED

BUSES ARE CONVENIENT BUT ARE NOT A REAL NECESSITY

ASSERTION MADE AT HEARING BY OMAHA PASSENGER AGENT

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Bus lines in the same territory served by railroads may be convenient but they are not necessary, A. L. Pardee, assistant general passenger agent for the Omaha railroad, told the State Railroad and Warehouse commission hearing testimony on an application of the Boulevard Transportation company for a bus permit here today.

Pardee occupied the witnes stand most of the morning following reopening of the hearing started last week in Mankato. He said he was opposed to the petition of the Boulevard Transportation company, a holding of the Great Northern railroad, in its present form. Railroads can adequantely serve any section of the state, he declared.

The petition asks a permit to establish bus lines connecting the Twin Cities, Mankato, Worthington and Fairmont. Testimony both opposing and upholding necessity of the line was heard at the opening sessions.

F. W. Matson, chairman of the commission, said the hearing probably would be closed late today and the petition taken under advisement.

MAN WITH MANY JOBS TO FACE A CHARGE OF FORGERY

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Clarence F. Green, Milwaukee law student, aviator, salesman and chicken rancher, will face charges of forgery here before he is surrendered to Milwaukee police for prosecution on a $20,000 swindle count, the prosecuting attorney's office announced today.

Green is charged with forging the name of the owner of the house in which he lived to obtain a loan of $3,500 on the property.

The deputy prosecutor said today that Green or Howard, as he is known here, had admitted his defalcation in Seattle and has said he will plead guilty to the Milwaukee charge.

BOY OF 10 COMMITS SUICIDE BY HANGING

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Police and the coroner today sought a reason for the hanging of Louis Marts, 10, believed to be the youngest suicide in the history of Iowa.

Marts was found hanging from a rafter in his father's barn last evening. The boy used a manger for the scaffold.

Ira Marts, the father, said he could give no reason for the suicide.

BOY OF 13 ALSO HANGS SELF

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Because he was locked in his bedroom as a matter of discipline Donald Povant, 13, committed suicide last night by hanging himself from a bed.

The boy made a noose of his belt and strangled himself by tying it to the bed and swinging himself against the noose.

Madison, Wisconsin, Woman Has Disappeared

Chicago, Sept. 28—(UP)—Police here today searched for Mrs. Helen Glass, Madison, Wis., who is believed to have stopped over here enroute to Indianapolis. Mrs. Glass left Madison Saturday and relatives fear may be lost.

WINDS of CHANCE by Rex Beach

Published by Arrangement with First National Pictures, Inc., and Frank Lloyd Productions, Inc.

McCaskey got no further, for with a cry of rage Pierce Phillips set his muscles and landed upon him. It was a mighty blow and it found lodgment upon the side of its victim's face.

Jim McCaskey went down and his assailant, maddened completely by the feel of his enemy's flesh, lunged forward to stamp him beneath his heels. But stout arms seized him, bodies intervened, and he was hurled backward. A shout arose; there was a general scramble for the raised platform. There were yells of:

"Shame!"

"Hang on to him!"

"Stretch him up!"

"Dirty ingrate!"

Phillips fought with desperation; his struggles caused the structure to creak and to strain; men piled over it and joined in the fight. He was whining and sobbing in his fury.

Meanwhile ready hands had rescued Jim from the trampling feet and now held his limp body erect.

It was the clarion call of the Countess Courteau which first made itself heard above the din. She had climbed to the railing and was poised there with one arm outflung, a quivering finger leveled at Jim McCaskey's head.

The Countess, too, had evidently made haste, for she was breathing deeply.

'Look!" she cried. "Look, men—at his head! There's proof that he's been lying!" The victim of the assault had lost his cap in the scuffle, and with it had gone the bandage. His head was bare now, and, oddly enough, it showed no matted hair, no cut, no bruise, no swelling. It was, in fact, a perfectly normal, healthy, well-preserved cranium.

Phillips ceased his struggles; he passed a shaking hand over his eyes to clear his vision; his captors released him and crowded closer to Jim McCaskey, who was now showing the first signs of returning consciousness.

"He told you he was held up—that his skull was cracked, didn't he?" The Countess threw back her head and laughed unrestrainedly. "My! But you men are fools! Now, then, who do you suppose got young Phillips' money? Use your wits, men."

There was a great craning of necks, a momentary hush, the while Jim McCaskey rolled his head loosely, opened his eyes, and stared wildly about.

The Countess bent down toward him, and now her cheeks had grown white, her blue eyes were flaming.

"Well, my man," she cried, in a shaking voice, "now you know what kind of a woman I am. 'Counting percentage checks,' eh?" She seemed upon the point of reaching out and throttling Jim with her long, strong fingers. 'Let's see you and your precious brother do a little counting. Count out a thousand dollars for this boy. Quick!"

It was 'Poleon Doret who searched the palsied victim. While other hands restrained the older brother he went through the younger one and, having done so, handed Pierce Phillips a bulky envelope addressed in the latter's handwriting.

"She's yours, eh?" 'Poleon inquired.

Phillips made a hasty examination, then nodded.

The Countess turned once more to the crowd. "I move that you apologize to Mr. Phillips. Are you game?" Her question met with a yell of approval. "Now, then, there's a new case on the docket, and the charge is highway robbery. Are you ready to vote a verdict?" Her face was set, her eyes still flashed.

"Guilty!" came with a roar.

'Very well. Hang the ruffians if you feel like it!"

She leaped down from her vantage point, and without a word, without a glance behind her, set out along the Dyea trail.

ST. PAUL HAS SERIES OF MISHAPS

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Five violent deaths and 13 serious injuries were reported to twin cities police over the week end. The coroner pronounced two of the deaths suicide.

Andrew Bloomquist, 62, an invalid for more than a year, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. He lived in Minneapolis.

Arthur Edner, 30, an insane patient returning to La Crosse, Wis., from Tacoma, Wash., accompanied by his uncle, J. A. Benedict, leaped from a bridge over the Mississippi river at Minneapolis and drowned.

Walter Hayner, a brakeman, 40, was found dead on the St. Paul road tracks. His right arm had been severed and his body badly mangled. The coroner said a train had passed over his body.

Fred Prienert, 39, a gassed and shell shocked veteran of the world war, was found dead on a sidewalk here. There was nothing to indicate the cause of death.

James Whitehead, 55, Fargo, N. D., telephone lineman, died at a hospital in Minneapolis from injuries suffered in a fall from a telephone pole at Minneapolis, September 10. His spine was fractured.

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(UP)—W. P. Christianson is in serious condition from burns received while attempting to pass an aerial wire over a power line. Peter Hoggman, Pittsburgh, Pa., is also in critical condition from injuries received in a fall from a porch. Jack Flood is in a hospital with serious cuts in his head and shoulders. Peter Anderson also suffered injuries in a street fight.

Other less serious injuries resulted from automobile accidents.

ANOKA FILLING STATION HELD UP

Anoka, Minn., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Two bandits today held up the John Hancock Oil company filling station here and escaped with $250 in cash. Lowell Anderson, the attendant, was abducted after the robbery and left on the roadside three miles from the city.

CONDEMN LANDS FOR HIGHWAY 27

Hearings Held Saturday Before Commission Named by Judge McClenahan

3 COMMISSIONERS SERVE

J. Frank Anderson, of Emily; Edward Crust and John H. Krekelberg of Brainerd

Hearings on condemnation proceedings were held Saturday before the commission appointed by Judge W. S. McClenahan, in the condeming of lands between Brainerd and the Morrison county line for public use, as a right-of-way for the new route of Trunk Highway No. 27.

The commission consists of J. Frank Anderson, of Emily, Edward Crust and J. H. Krekelberg, of Brainerd. On Friday the commissioners met, took the oath perscribed, and elected Mr. Krekelberg as chairman. They viewed the lands in question on Friday afternoon, preparatory to hearing the cases.

The cases heard on Saturday were those of L. A. White, Eugene Jones, Gertrude Milam, and the Fredstrom estate. F. E. Ebner appeared as attorney for Eugene Jones and Gertrude Milam, and Ryon, Ryan and Ryan for the Fredstrom estate. L. A. White was not represented by an attorney. Attorney Victor E. Anderson, of St. Paul, represented the state.

No awards were made at Saturday's meeting, all cases being taken under advisement. A second hearing is scheduled for next Saturday, October 3rd. The commission meets in the district court room at the court house.

REV. WALTON TO WADENA

Former Rector of St. Paul's Moves Family and Household Effects to New Charge

Rev. W. M. Walton, former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and now rector of the Episcopal church at Wadena left today for that place, with his family.

Rev. Walton received a call to Wadena on the first of September, and has been making the journey there each week, pending the vacating of the rectory there. For the last two ar three days, Rev. Walton has been moving his household goods. Rev. Long, formerly of International Falls, takes Rev. Walton's place here.

The good wishes of local people, both members of his church and others, attend Rev. Walton and his family to their new place of service. They have the high regard of all who knew them.

Of the three daughters in the family, one is married and lives in Saskatchewan, another is science teacher in the Wahpeton schools, and the other is attending school at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Chaplin First Star In "Charley's Aunt"

It is a strange thing but true that "Charley's Aunt," the play which has been going continuously for thirty-three years on the stage, has never had a star, and the film presenting Syd Chaplin which comes to the Lyceum theatre Monday and Tuesday is the first time the piece has ever been done with a star in the title role.

"Charley's Aunt" has been played in England with 166 different "Charleys" and according to Mrs. Brandon Thomas, wife of the author, who now controls the enormous estate which the play has built up, every one of the Charleys has been good.

Avalanche of Praise For "The Iron Horse." At the New Park.

Exceptional praise of the faithful portrayal of the stirring events in the early sixties which the William Fox photoplay, "The Iron Horse," presents has been received from historians, writers and railroad executives who have seen the picture.

John Ford, who directed the production, took his company to the Nevada desert, in lower California, and in the Sierra Range to obtain an accurate setting for "The Iron Horse."

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

This is a story not of "Sharps and Flats," but of more flats than sharps. Russell Hagberg and Vernon Dieckhaus made the last lap of a ten day motor trip late Saturday, returning to their homes here about 6 o'clock They qualified as expert tire repairers on the return journey, taking care of thirty-five flats, the result of hot driving along the pavements. Their last night found them at Anoka, waking up in the morning with three flats, besides a flat spare. In all they covered about two thousand miles in the ten days.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SESSION

Annual Meeting Held in Church Parlors And Reports Heard

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Rev. N. P. Olmsted Presided as Chairman of Meeting

The First Congregational church held its annual meeting on last Thursday evening in the church parlors, at which the yearly reports were heard from the various branches of the church and officers elected to fill the terms that expired this year. Rev. N. P. Olmsted presided as chairman of the meeting.

Following is the list of officers elected:

Deaconess for three years—Mrs. W. E. Erickson, Mrs. E. H. Jones.

Deacon for three years—J. A. Wilson, H. A. Wilson.

Trustees for three years—G. D. LaBar, D. E. Whitney, E. J. Cook, Dr. K. H. Hoorn.

Clerk—Dr. G. H. Ribbel.

Auditor—R. D. Stitzel.

Sunday School Superintendent—C. Bruhn.

Head Usher—G. H. Stone.

Music committee—Mrs. W. A. Erickson, Mrs. G. D. LaBar, Mrs. C. A. Allbright, Mrs. C. W. Hoffman, Mrs. D. E. Whitney.

Parish visitors and social committee—Mrs. A. C. Weber, Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Mrs. W. C. Mannis Mrs. R. M. Sheets, Mrs. J. P. Anderson, Mrs. W. C. Cobb and Mrs. George E. Thomas.

The reports of the various church activities showed that each one of the branches of the denomination had been working hard during the past year. The ladies aid society and the Priscilla Circle rendered exceptionally fine reports, and were highly praised for their accomplishments during the year. All divisions of the churches activities plan an even greater program of service for the coming year than was completed during the past twelve months.

The men of the church are planning a men's forum, a club to meet once each month during the winter at a luncheon, followed by a short program, with a principal speaker on some subject of general interest, and an open forum by the members on this subject.

The idea has appealed to all who have been approached on it, and the men will gather on Wednesday evening, September 30th, at the ladies aid supper in the church basement, where they will have a special table and afterward draw up definite plans for organizing the forum. All men interested in such a club, whether members of the church or not, are invited and urged to be present at Wednesday evening's supper, which will be served at 6 o'clock.

BRAINERD GOODS FINDING MARKETS

Orders From as Far West as Portland, Ore., Received by Wm. Schlange

CIGARS MEET WITH FAVOR

Tourist at Local Camp Impressed With Flavor and Sends in Order

Brainerd-made products are finding a market in an ever enlarging territory, but when orders come from as far west as Portland, Ore., it means that locally manufactured goods must be making quite a reputation.

William Schlange, cigar manufacturer located on South Seventh street, recently received an order for a shipment of the "Economy Brand" cigars from Portland, with a letter acompanying the order in which the writer states that these cigars have found special favor with him.

V. M. Smith is the man ordering the cigars. He toured through Minnesota the past season, stopping at the Brainerd tourist camp, and while here had an opportunity to sample Mr. Schlange's Economy cigar. He liked the brand so well that he took a goodly supply with him, and now places a second order for his favorite smoke.

Mr. Schlange, who has been a resident of Brainerd and Crow Wing county for many years, is an ardent booster for Brainerd-made products, and proudly asserts that he never buys out-of-town merchandise. He believes that all Brainerd citizens should follow this practice, and adds that if locally made goods are appreciated as far west as the Pacific coast, they should find favor in the city in which they are manufactured.

Jacob Tabert Funeral

Funeral services for the late Jacob Tabert, of Ironton, a former Brainerd resident, will be held on Tuesday afternoon, September 29th, at 2:30 o'clock from the Presbyterian church of Ironton. An obituary notice will be published later.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our loving husband and father, Frank McKenna, of Eau Claire, Wisconsin.

MRS. FRANK McKENNA,
1tp and family.

McGarry-Kretzschmar

Patrick Ambrose McGarry and Miss Elizabeth Emma Kretzschmar were united in marriage on Saturday evening at the parsonage of St. Francis Catholic church, Rev. Father James Hogan officiating.

Both young people are well known in Brainerd. The groom is a son of Mrs. M. A. McGarry, 911 Maple street, and is employed as a dispatcher in the local Minnesota & International railway offices.

The bride is a sister of Theodore Kretzschmar, and is interested in the Electrik bakery. The newlyweds will make their home in the city.

Laurila-Mileusnich

Emil Laurila, of Biwabik, and Miss Fanny Lydia Mileusnich, of Trommald were married today at the bride's home.

They expect to make their home at Trommald, where the groom has secured a position in the mines.

KAPPA DELPHIAN CHAPTER

IF YOU COULD SEE THE HEAT IN COAL

You would realize at once that a load of STANDARD COAL contains a full measure of heat and a load of ordinary unprepared coal only a short measure of heat.

The difference in heat value is due to the low ash content of STANDARD COAL and to the careful, systematic way in which STANDARD COAL is mined and cleaned, so that no visible, noncombustible impurities and wastes are shipped.

Freight charges are the same on STANDARD COAL as on the ordinary, unprepared, dirty coal. Delivered heat value alone counts. For a full measure of heat, use STANDARD COAL.
